After scalding death

Couple arrested

A Jollyville couple was arrested by Sheriff's deputies Thursday night on charges of injury to a child in connection with the scalding death of their 5 year-old son on May 8.

Santos Molina Alvardo Sr., 27, and his wife Amelia Cisneros Alvardo, 24, are being held in the Williamson County Jail. Bond has been set at $5,000 each.

THE BOY DIED, after spending 11 days in Brackenridge Hospital, from burns received when he fell into a bathtub of scalding water.

The hospital report stated that there were conflicting reports from the parents about how long they had waited after the incident to seek medical help, but both estimated that it had been at least two days before the child was taken to the hospital.

THE ALVARDO'S said they did not take the child to the hospital immediately because they did not have a car.

A Williamson County Grand Jury indicted the Alvardo's on Tuesday, June 2, for injury to a child.

Mrs. Alvardo had said to police that in preparing a bath, she had poured boiling water into the tub because her hot water heater did not work.

SHE SAID the child, Santos Molina Alvardo Jr., had fallen into the tub.

The boy was taken to Brackenridge hospital on April 28, by Mrs. alvardo and her sister-in-law.

The Sheriff's department reported that the child had received 1st, 2nd and 3rd degree burns on his back, buttock, leg, feet and right arm. He had burns on 35 percent of his body.

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Leon Kelley and Deputy Jim Boutwell arrested Mrs. Alvardo in their home in Jollyville at approximately 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 2.

KELLEY AND BOUTWELL returned later and arrested Mr. Alvardo, who had not been home earlier, at approximately 9 p.m.

The couple's other child, a 6 year-old girl, is temporarly under the custody of the Williamson County Child Welfare Board.

MRS. SANTOS ALVARDO is brought to the Williamson County Sheriff's office Thursday evening by Chief Deputy Leon Kelley (left) and Deputy Jim Boutwell. Mr. and Mrs. Alvardo were arrested Thursday for injury to a child.

Western Week to be biggest ever

With a Texas-style bang, plans for the coming Western Week in Georgetown are rapidly taking shape.

Western Week has been scheduled for June 20 to June 25 and members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Williamson County Sheriff's Posse are planning to make this one of the biggest events of the year.

A variety of activities, ranging from a tricycle race for daddys to a rodeo for professional cowboys, have been scheduled and many others are in the making.

A Skateboard Tournament, begining at 6 p.m. Monday, June 20, will kick off the week's activities and offers prizes for contestants. The tourney, which is divided into three categories, is open to men and women of every age. The tournament will be held in the Southwestern Plaza parking lot where courses for the cross-country, freestyle and slalom races will be prepared.

Designed as a skilled event for amateurs, the skateboard tourney will be supervised by representatives of Arrowsmith Skateboard Inc. of Austin. They will supply rules, techanical layout for the courses and judges.

The chamber reports that workers are needed for the tournaments as well as participants, both young and old. The tourney will be in three divisions for men and three for women. Ages to ten, from 11 to 15 and then from 16 up will compete against one another.

The top male and the top female scorers will be awarded an Arrowsmith Skateboard. There is a $1 entry fee for each event and the Chamber of Commerce asks that each participant sign a release so that the city nor the Chamber of Commerce would be held responsible in case of an accident.

Monday has also been set aside for a Tricycle Race and the Moonwalk will be set up for the enjoyment of kids of all ages.

Fun Day, as the first day of Western Week has been slated, activities will all be located on the parking lot of Southwestern Plaza in Georgetown.

The tricycle contest will begin at 6:30 p.m. and entrants will be divided into three age groups, 0-3, 4-6, and Daddys.

First, second and third place ribbons will be awarded in each category.

Rock festival?

An emergency meeting of the Williamson County Commissioners Court has been called for Monday at 10 a.m. to discuss a proposed "rock festival" in the Florence area on June 18.

The meeting will be held at the Courthouse on June 7.

Mayor reviews year, sets new goals

After serving Georgetown as mayor for a little more than a year John Doerfler is proud of the city's accomplishments but says that there are still a lot of projects that need to be started or completed.

"Probably one of the most important decisions the city council made this last year," Doerfler said, "was to build a second water storage facility."

He said that a shortage of storage space surfaced last summer and caused a number of residents inconvenience. "We have enough wells and water to take care of our population but we did not have enough space to store what was needed," the mayor added.

Although it will not be needed for a projected five years, Doerfler said that he is glad that the city fathers are thinking ahead and preparing the system to take water from the North Fork Lake, presently under construction by the Corp of Engineers, to a proposed water treatment plant.

"The dam itself should be finished in a year or so," he said, "but it will probably be 1980 before we will use it as a water source." The mayor added that Georgetown would not need the extra source until that time.

The aldermen have made an agreement with the Corp of Engineers to lease the property for the city's treatment plant, intake lines and water lines, Doerfler explained, and Community Development funds paid for the construction of the intake system.

Even though the new lake will fall outside the Georgetown city limits Doerfler said, "The area falls into our extra-territiorial jurisdiction which extends for a one-mile radius around the city."

One of my coffee-drinking friends has a saying, "Everybody wants to go to heaven but nobody wants to die."

ALL OF US WANT gasoline saved but nobody wants to cut down on his own driving.

Gasoline consumption appears to be headed for a record high this summer with an estimated 7.7 million barrels going through the carburetors daily. Overall, the United States is now importing an average of 8.3 million barrels (about $15 per barrel) of crude oil daily, an increase of 39 percent over last year, up 91.5 percent from the year before and about 109 percent higher than the 1973 pre-embargo days.

President Carter's energy package, which most of us don't want to buy, might be expected — optimistically — to cut our gasoline consumption 10 percent by 1985. At our current rate of spending we will have blown $400 billion for foreign oil by then, our country will be short of money and what we have left won't buy much. That's the pessimistic view and, of course, there's an optimistic prophesy which says that by 1985 we'll have most of our troubles behind us.

IF THE TEXAS legislature can pass a comprehensive school bill in a special session it should have been able to pass one in the regular session just finished. Governor Briscoe said this week he may call the solons together if the leaders agree on a bill that is likely to obtain a two-thirds majority vote. A special session, says the governor, would also work at a bill to give utility customers some relief by removing the 4 percent sales tax on those bills. Again, why couldn't this have been accomplished in the regular session and saved the taxpayers about a million bucks?

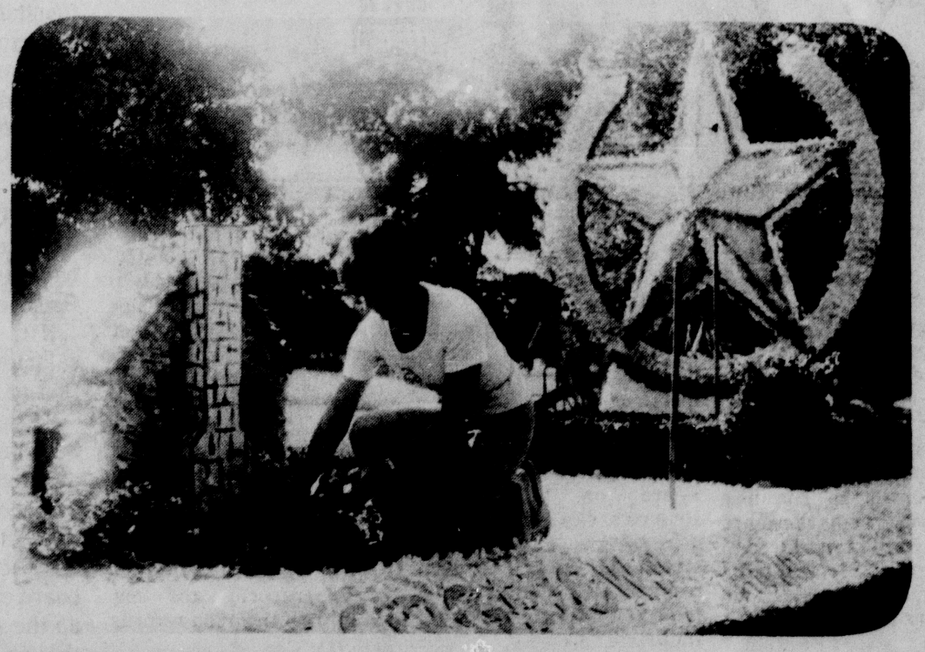
It was good news this week from Cong. Pickle's office that the San Gabriel dams are funded and can proceed at an uninterrupted pace toward completion. Jake and Cong. Poage, with the help of Senators Tower and Bentsen, have really stayed on top of this project and deserve our unanamous vote of thanks for their interest and good work.



HISTORIC GEORGETOWN is the theme of the float sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce featuring Miss Georgetown, Rebecca Commagere, and her duchesses, Missy Kingery and Cindy Stefanov. Bonnie Schaefer is shown here sprucing up the float for the Western Week Parade June 22. Incidentally, Mrs. Schaefer and the royalty won a second place ribbon Thursday in a parade in Llano.

Canadian gal has a story to tell of Georgetown experience

I hate saying goodbye. The clean break with the past-like the thrust of a razor-sharp sword — is not for me. I prefer to fantasize right up to the very last second; to pretend that things will continue as they were and are and then, days later, to sneak in the back door by phone or letter and say what I need to say.

THAT WAY, I CAN HANDLE IT. This story will be my way of backing into my goodbyes to the SUN staff — always the best to me — and to the Georgetowners I've come to know, however briefly.

Most Georgetowners treated me well, very well. "Most" just two businessmen, both of whom squared off against me — feet astride and arms braced — and let me know that they weren't the least bit interested in participating in the Centennial edition. (Reminded me of the New England "salts" I loved to talk to in my travels to the Maine coast). That's fair . . . expressing their feelings and thoughts, honestly. I don't equate polite behavior with saying "yes" to an ad.

Soliciting ads was something I hadn't anticipated but, as happens in any small business, people don't bother much with job descriptions. The whole idea is to get the job done. I was hired to write ad copy — in feature story foremat — and take photographs, about 2 months ago. It had been years since I had worked for a newspaper, and while I could hardly wait to get at it, I had to acknowledge that I was nervous. Make that NERVOUS.

I think Mr. and Mrs. Scarbrough were nervous, too, both about the issue, and about me. Though they didn't exactly say it, I felt there were a few strikes chalked up against me: I was a (horrors) "City Slicker" from Austin; I was a (gadzooks) "Yank," (Mr. Scarbrough used the term loosely with me because I had lived in New England for several years; in fact, I'm Canadian. (Is that a borderline Yank?); and, worst of all, I was (dare I

AMERICAN MONEY FOR AFRICA?

Our hip-shooting U. N. Ambassador Andrew Young is urging American money for the backward nations of Africa.

HE WANTS A KIND of "Marshall Plan" for Africa, he says.

The United States "has to do it," he says, "to keep those countries from turning Communist."

Repeatedly Young has had to backtrack or apologize for intemperate utterance which were an embarrassment either to others or to ourselves.

Yet he says—though I do not quite understand this—that President Carter wants him to be controversial.

His predecessor, Pat Moynihan, attracted much attention to himself with his blunt outspokenness. He called the U.N. General Assembly "a theater of the absurd."

He called Idi Amin of Uganda "a racist murderer."

Repeatedly, however, Ford and Kissinger supported Moynihan and pleaded with him to stay on.

SO THERE MUST be certain advantages to having a representative in the United Nations who is able and willing to say some necessarily undiplomatic things to get the attention of the less enlightened nations which are now a majority in the General Assembly.

But where Moynihan's thrusts were carefully calculated for a purpose—Young's idea of saying something outrageous just for the sake of "controversy" is inconceivable.

Young has accused Britain of being "chicken" on racial matters.

For that remark he had to issue a public apology.

Young said that Cuban troops "bring a certain stability and order to Angola."

For that his boss, State Secretary Cyrus Vance, had to issue a flat contradiction.

THE MOST DISTURBING utterance by Young so far was when he said that in the event of an East-West showdown in Africa, black American troops would mutiny rather than fight on the white side of the South Africans.

He mentioned that American armed forces are 30 percent black and predicted there would be "civil war" at home.

That remark, of course, unconscionably slandered the patriotism of black Americans.

MORE WORRISOME—since it has not been denied—is a remark by Young that he feels President Carter wants him to "take charge of Africa."

There is an unrecognized contradiction here.

The once-backward nations of South Africa and Rhodesia were developed with the aid of British money and know-how. That is how whites, protecting their investment and harvesting its fruits, came to control those countries.

Ambassador Young has said repeatedly that he wants African rule of Afrikaans, so this would require that we send money with no strings. That's not a Marshall Plan; that is worldwide welfare.

Why they protest SST's coming

By David Anable

Rosedale, New York

7:37, p.m. There we were sitting in Joe Ewald's kitchen when the house began to vibrate.

"It's a screacher," says Joe taking another sip of lemonade. "Must be a 707."

An ear-stunning whine and roar drowns further talk. Through the insect screen on the kitchen door we catch a passing glimpse of the four-engined Boeing 707 as it dips just above the garage roof down toward the runway of Kennedy International Airport.

It's a typical Tuesday evening for the weary middle-class residents of Rosedale in the New York borough of Queens.

The peple who live in these modest, one-and two-family, wood-frame homes deeply believe in the flag and the country and "Mom."

They're proud to be hard-working "law and order freaks." They provide recruits for the Army, patrolmen for the police, volunteers for the firehouse, sturdy kids for Little League baseball.

Yet these are the people who have taken to the streets in their Chevies, their Fords, and their Plymouths, snarling airport traffic in outraged protest against the possible arrival of that pride and joy of Anglo-French technical achievement, the supersonic Concorde.

7:39 p.m. A deeper, crescendoing thunder swamps conversation. A 747 Jumbo makes its brief appearance at the kitchen door – "the Whisper jets, they're the best," shouts Geraldine Ewald.

Joe, a massive construction worker with bristling brown hair and moustache, is chairman of "ROAR" – an anti-Concorde acronym originally standing for "Rights Of All Rosedale" but later broadened hopefull to "Return Our American Rights." Mike Biggio, an accountant from across the street, is "national coordinator." The "sergeant at arms" is a neighboring bus driver named (appropriately enough) Jack Deliver.

The Ewald kitchen burns with their collective fury and frustration . . . against the New York Port Authority which operates Kennedy, against the airlines, against politicians whose attention span is limited to election campaigns, against city cuts in police, fire, and library services, against rising taxes and prices, against France's President Giscard ("discard") d'Estaing.

It's quickly clear that Concorde is merely the last strew that threatens to break the back of Rosedale's deeply ingrained, law-abiding patience. The supersonic transport has become a symbol of all authority's apparent disregard for middle-class values and hopes.

"It's the buildup of everything, they're choking me to death," says Joe. "And then this Concorde comes along and I say, 'hey, man, wait a minute. . . .'"

7:42 p.m. A 747 swoops slowly past with a voice-obliterating whine.

The Mikes, Joes, Jacks, and Geraldines of Rosedale have had enough. Whatever the result of test service at Washington's Dulles International Airport, they are irrevocably convinced that Concorde landings at Kennedy will add unbearable decibels to their present discomfort. They distrust the U.S. Department of Transportation's proposed 16-month "trial period" as the thin end of an unstoppable wedge.

"We know . . . that once they put the SST into service it'll soon run into 30 to 50 flights a day. Eventually they'll all be SSTs."

7:44 p.m. A Boeing 727 thunders over.

Why don't these people leave Rosedale? Because it's home. Jack's lived here all his life. Joe's lived here or in neighboring Elmont. "We're fighting for every aspect of our community. Concorde constitutes the most serious threat yet to our community life."

What about those takeoff rules calling for a hard right turn out over the bay? "They can make all the rules they want, but they don't enforce them," says Joe.

7:46 p.m. The devastating, jarring shriek of a 707 fills the kitchen and shakes the walls.

And what if the courts decide finally that the federal trial period must be honored?

"I figure they'll have to have martial law around JFK; they'll have to call out the National Guard," says Joe. "If it's going to be war, I've got a lot of people behind me."

'Take a letter to Jimmy Carter and tell him he can keep Miami'

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN—Gov. Dolph Briscoe looked as uncomfortable as a man who's told he's wanted for dinner —only to find out he's the guest of cannibals.

Briscoe had come over to the Senate to watch the final moments of the regular session of the 65th Legislature. And as he watched, it became evident that there were few changes for the House and Senate to agree to a public school finance bill.

PUBLIC SCHOOL FINANCE was one of the four main areas of endeavor listed by the governor in his address to the 65th Session in January. And it was considered by many to be the prime issue of the session— certainly one which touched folks with as much impact as any other matter.

Yet that issue still was unresolved as the hands of the clocks in the chambers of the two houses inched towards "12" on the dials — and there was Dolph Briscoe, who, steadfastly has refused to call a special session except enactment of the 55 m.p.h. speed limit.

So the next day most of the Capitol press corps, quite a few House members and assorted senators packed into the red-carpeted reception room to hear Briscoe announce plans for a special session.

Briscoe noted that the legislature had managed to deal with three of the four areas in which he had urged action—highways, law and order and medical malpractice. He failed to note that only the first was not in doubt until the literal eleventh hour, when malpractice and the limited oral confessions measure won approval.

Briscoe made it clear he still doen't like having to call a special session.

HE SHIFTED PART of the burden back to Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who will ride herd over the efforts of their education committees, which are to hammer out a bill before the lawmakers return—sometime (Briscoe anticipates) in mid-July.

Post mortems on the session—and Briscoe's decision—have produced the concensus that Briscoe had little choice in calling for a special session on school finance.

Too many people and too much is involved, the reasoning goes, to simply let the matter drop—and to go back to the automatic funding of the minimum foundation school program under the present bill.

Briscoe, in his statement, indicated he agrees.

Briscoe didn't have to point out that had he not called a special session, that would have become an immediate political issue for his re-election campaign—the official start of which may be delayed a bit due to the special session.

ATTORNEY GENERAL JOHN HILL, should he, as expected, run against Briscoe, undoubtedly would have loved to have had that issue to use against Briscoe.

Hill may have the chance to use teacher salaries—depending on Briscoe's message and the action of the lawmakers.

"Educators for Hill" has already filed with Secretary of State Mark White, as Briscoe and his aides surely know.

School finance is likely to figure into the campaign of a lot of other politicians, too.

Some observers felt Clayton might have "held the board open" on the vote to suspend the rules on taking up the school finance bill—in an effort to switch over the six votes needed to adopt the bill.

That wouldn't have changed the outcome — except to allow the House to blame the Senate for failing to pass a bill.

That would have been some fairly valuable political capital, especially since the Senate already is being viewed by many as the villain for taking up the matter so late in the session, and delaying so long in approving any bill.

BUT CLAYTON WANTS to run for speaker for a third term — and Rep. Bill Sullivant of Gainesville already has announced against him.

So the bill came up—and went down—and members of the House wiped away the sweat upon hearing the Senate , too, had failed to approve a bill,

Had the Senate done so, senators would have found more to like about the bill than they apparently did—and vice versa, had the House acted and the Senate not.

Such is the algebra of politics—as Dolph Briscoe knows as well as anyone.

And if that's true of special sessions, what, one wonders, may eventually come of "no new taxes"?

Airport for Round Rock

An airport for booming Round Rock is in the air — so to speak — but not everyone appears to be gung-ho on the project.

AN INDICATOR of that feeling appeared in the Round Rock Leader this week with an opening question followed with commentary:

"Does Round Rock need an airport? It seems the Federal Aviation Administration wants to do a study to decide.

Airports take many acres off the tax rolls and put them on the city's maintenance budget. Several city councilmen have expressed opposition to the idea (Tim's is only a few miles to the south; Georgetown a few miles north; and Taylor only slightly farther east), but the prospect of a "free federal study" appeals to some.

We don't know about Round Rock, but everyone in Georgetown is pleased that our city does have a fine airport facility. It is definitely an asset. Whether we would want one if we had a facility such as it or Tim's within four or five miles of our city limits would have to be answered — probably — in a funding vote by the taxpayers.

Fortunately, we got our airport about 35 years ago, when land was cheap, thanks to some far-sighted community leaders who had a friend in Washington by the name of LBJ.

S.U. still humming

Summer brings a slowdown on the Southwestern University campus but not much.

WE ARE HAPPY to see Dr. Fleming and his people moving more strongly into summer activities, which opened with classroom studies Friday of this week. Also, a summer recreation program under the watchful eye of Athletic Director Dr. "Tex" Cassens and baseball coach Jim Mallon will be simultanously underway.

Information of the summer school courses, which end July 12, and other special programs is available at the admissions office.

Southwestern has a magnificent campus that is costly to maintain, even when the place is vacated by the students. So, it makes good sense to utilize those facilities as much as possible all through the summer, almost everyone around here would agree.

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN — Legislators headed for home this week, pronouncing their session a success in many areas.

They also departed amid warnings in both houses that the level of income will not sustain another 37 per cent increase in spending without a major tax bill in 1979.

Lawmakers completed action on the record $15.5 billion biennial spending bill three days before the adjournment deadline, clearing the decks for late concentration on school finance and miscellaneous issues.

The session turned out a variety of anti-crime bills recommended by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and legislative leadership. Other crime-control measures were casualties of the session.

Lawmakers months ago allocated $528 million in additional funds to highway building and maintenance. The measure already has been signed into law by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Also signed early was the coal slurry pipeline bill giving operators of pipelines to move coal mixed with water authority to take needed lands for right of way.

The session saw a new record for filibusters — 43 hours — set by Sen. Bill Meier of Euless. The measure Meier attacked — to close certain Industrial Accident Board records to those who would seek to copy and sell them to employers — made it through the Senate.

Many thought the session also set some kind of record for dullness.

It seemed to convince nearly everybody there are too many bills introduced to take care of in a 140-day meeting, but no restrictions are likely in the future.

Tax Income Up

Tax collections for the current fiscal year are 16 per cent above the same period in 1976, and the state closed books at the end of March with a cash balance of $1.31 billion.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said tax collections through the first seven months of fiscal 1977 (Sept. 1, 1976-March 31, 1977) were $2.25 billion. That is $315.8 million over the first seven months of fiscal 1976.

Motor vehicle sales taxes boomed 25 per cent and natural gas production taxes 33 per cent in that period.

A 159 per cent jump in corporate franchise taxes revenue was traceable largely to release of funds paid under protest from settlement of a court case.

Bullock reported total state revenues thus far in fiscal 1977 are $3.8 billion, up 11 per cent over 1976. Total state expenditures during the same period were $3.95 billion, an increase of only one per cent.

Standards Deferred

The Texas Air Control Board, on Gov. Dolph Briscoe's request, has put off tough enforcement standards for pollution control that might have forced cancelling of many industrial projects.

Briscoe suggested an all-out effort to improve air quality before the enforcement crackdown. He estimated shutting down projects that failed to meet federal air standards may halt $2.5 billion in industrial construction and cause loss of jobs.

Atty. Gen. John Hill said he has suggestions for state legal steps to insure more equitable enforcement of the federal clean air act by the Environmental Protection Agency "and to prevent a self-defeating no growth policy . . ." Hill said he wants to convince Congress the "bankrupt emissions trade-off policy" should be abandoned.

Courts Speak

The Supreme Court upheld the will of a 19-year-old woman student who left about $70,000 to Texas A&M University. The student was killed in an auto accident and her will challenged by her mother and half sister.

In other actions the high court held:

A $200,000 judgment is valid against a Houston railroad for falsely reporting tests showed an injured employee had taken methadone.

Fire marshals' investigative reports are not covered by the open records law.

Deeds reserving mineral rights in general do not reserve minerals that can be extracted only by substantial destruction of the surface.

AG Opinions

A provision of the auto Safety Responsibility Act for suspending drivers licenses where a persor fails to pay a judgment does not apply unless the judgment arises out of a motor vehicle accident on the highways, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The Committee to Study the Selection Process of Chief Administrative Officers of Component Institutions of the University of Texas System does not have to comply with the open meetings act.

Horsedrawn hack trips to Abilene

by HAMILTON WRIGHT

In the 1890s a hack drawn by two good horses negotiated the distance from G'town to Abilene, a distance of approximately 200 miles.

THERE WASN'T SINGLE YARD of paving the entire distance. After rains deep ruts slowed heavily-laden wagons. And sometimes the roads were impassable. Directirons to travelers showed on crude signs. Some of them in pastures read "Rosted" after putting an addition to the "P" warning trespassers.

In olden days much lumber, foodstuffs and other commodities were freighted from Round Rock to villages and towns in West Texas. Buffalo hides and later buffalo bones gathered on the flats about Buffalo Gap and Abilene were waggoned to Austin. Those were the days before the railroads into that region. Abilene got its first railroad in March 1881.

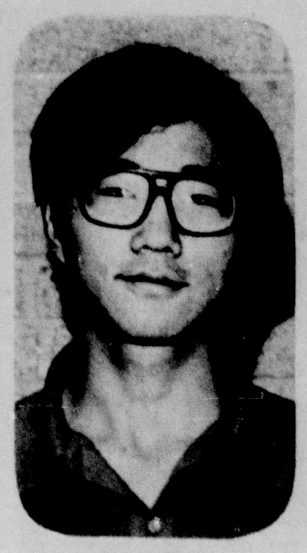
Stones, like grave markers, along the main thoroughfares, had a pointing fore finger showing direction to the next town, along with the approximate distance ahead.

IN THE 1890s this writer made several trips with his father and brother to Buffalo Gap and Abilene. The country was rather wild but Indians had gone. Travel was lonely except for meeting travelers going in the opposition direction.

We'd camp out every night. We preferred a creek where we could fish. Fishermen were not in multitudes then. If a farm house was near Dad would go to the door and make arrangements for the lady to cook up a batch of biscuits. Old-time bacon sandwiched in the biscuits, with black coffee, made up our breakfasts.

Once we encountered a tornado and severe hail. Our horses were hurt by the hail. Our journey was postponed several days until the horses healed. During that time we fished.

PAULA LAWHON



DICK SUH

Lawhon and Suh chosen to attend Girls-Boys State

Paula Lawhon and Dick Suh were chosen from Georgetown High School to attend American Legion Girls State and Boys State in June.

They were chosen by their teachers and by members of the American Legion and Opti-Mrs. Club to attend the 10 day sessions studying local, state and national government.

OVER 520 girls will converge on the Texas Lutheran Campus in Seguin June 14 through 24 for the Girls State study program. They will campaign for offices, hold elections and study government. Then, at the end of the study period, the group will journey to Austin, where they will assume the offices of the public officials they have been studying and run the government for a day.

Boys State convenes in Austin June 8. Some 900 young men are expected to take part in the annual event. The boys will be housed in 22 Boys State "cities" with each city further divided into two precincts, one for the Federalist and one for the Nationalist political party. Like the Girls State participants, the boys run for political office, hold elections and study government from the inside.

The purpose of the program, according to the Texas American Legion, is to develop civic leadership and pride in America, arouse an interest in the detailed study of government and call attention to the importance of citizens exercising their right to vote.

Paula and Dick look forward to the experience and expect to learn a great deal in their study of the governmental process.

Texas 4-H Roundup brings together the top youth talents in the state in judging contests and various demonstrations and skill events. Their goal is to be the best in Texas.

Some 1,600 4-H boys and girls will be at Texas A&M University June 7 and 8 for the annual event which has become a highlight of the 4-H year. Competition is keen in the 36 events which range from public speaking and livestock judging to demonstrations on safety and use of electricity. A new contest in method demonstrations has been added that is open to all members regardless of their project interest.

Vangie Stoll and Bill Moenke of Taylor will compete with their Safety Demonstration entitled, "It's Your Life Protect It."

A major event of 4-H Roundup is the State 4-H Food Show on June 7, with judging of entries beginning at 9 a.m. All other competition will be on June 8, with some events beginning as early as 6:30 a.m.

ROUNDUP headquarters will be the Rudder Center, and activities will officially get under way with an opening assembly at 5:30 p.m. on June 7 in the Center auditorium, points out George McArthur, 4-H and youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Roundup coordinator.

Featured at the assembly will be an awards program recognizing five individuals, businesses or organizations that have made outstanding contributions to 4-H. Winners of numerous 4-H scholarship awards will also be announced. Presiding will be Bonnie Helwig of Runnels County, vice chairman of the Texas 4-H Council.

In addition to the various contests and demonstrations on June 8, a special luncheon will be held in honor of 28 outstanding 4-H adult leaders in Texas. These leaders are selected on the basis of two from each of the 14 Extension Service districts, notes McArthur. Mr. Jack Winterrowd of Thrall will be recognized as one of the 28 outstanding adult leaders in Texas for his contribution to 4-H in Williamson County and District 10.

WRAPPING UP Roundup activities will be a special recognition program at 8 p.m. at which winners in the day's competitive events will be presented. Master of ceremonies will be Ken Jordan of Mason County, Texas, 4-H Council Chairman.

State 4-H Roundup not only attracts a host of youth but also brings together some 500 adults, including county Extension agents, 4-H leaders, friends of 4-H, mass media representatives, contest donors and members of the board of directors of the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation, the service organization of 4-H in the state.

Many in 4-H consider Roundup the top event of the year. It provides an opportunity for youth to grow and develop and to share learning experiences across a broad spectrum of activities. And really, that's what 4-H is all about.

TEXAS 4-H Roundup is one of the oldest annual statewide 4-H events in the nation. Through the years it has offered challenges and thrills to those who have competed. THERE WILL BE A 4-H HORSEMANSHIP SCHOOL held June 23-25 at Manor Downs, northeast of Austin approximately 11 miles. Program aides hired by the Texas A&M Horse Specialists will conduct the clinic which will deal with horsemanship, bitting, maneuvers, showmanship, training, grooming, and safety.

Parents and adult leaders are also encouraged to attend this clinic and a session will be held to instruct them on assisting 4-H horsemen, adjusting and building horse equipment, and ways to demonstrate and teach horsemanship skills. A question and answer period will be held during the session.

INSTRUCTIONAL costs for the clinic will be $6.00 ($2.00/day/student). Facility and stall fees will be $1.00/day or $3.00 for the school. A noon meal will be available each day at an estimated cost of $2.00. This could vary but should be reasonably close.

Any Williamson County 4-H member or adult leader interested in attending this 4-H Horsemanship School should contact the County Extension Office for registration forms and further details. Registration forms must be completed and returned to the Travis County Extension Office by June 10th.

Georgetown Library: Jungle Safari Bookings

Have you ever dreamed about undertaking a jungle safari?

Ever yearned to visit distant lands? Want to learn more about the unusual customs, different lifestyles, and exotic foods of other cultures?

READERS AT the Georgetown Public Library may join more than 100,000 young Texans who will be taking a "Jungle Journey" this summer.

School is out. The long three months of summer loom before your youngster. One major complaint often heard by parents is "there's nothing to do."

There is, in reality, much going on in Georgetown and part of the action is right at the Georgetown Library. During the summer the library will be planning special activities, including films, puppet shows, and other programs.

Then there is the jungle journey. To undertake this fascinating trip requires that you enjoy reading books and that you join the Summer Reading Club.

SPONSORED JOINTLY by the Georgetown Library and the Texas State Library, the Reading Club encourages young readers to use the recreational and informational materials they can find at their local library.

According to Verne Philpot, Head Librarian, "Each youngster will receive a reading log on which to record what he or she has read. In addition to the list of books each reader compiles, the log includes a pair of word puzzles and a maze. When a child has read ten books a certificate is presented."

The program is specifically geared to preschool youngsters through second grade, although the empasis at the library is on encouraging all youngsters to discover the fun of reading, to help children not forget the words they learned in school, and to bring their reading level higher.

"SUMMER READING," says Mrs. Philpot "helps build valuable reading skills." Summer reading, whether for entertainment or information, is different from the required reading that students must do during the school year. It's an opportunity to read based on the way one's interests roll.

If the trip sounds exciting and challenging to you, stop by the Georgetown Library, and sign up for your jungle journey. Hours are 10-5 Monday-Friday, 10-2, Saturday. Story time is Wednesday, 10:00, followed by a Dr. Seuss film.

Dear editor:

I would like to address the lack of road maintenance in and around Georgetown. There is a "mini pool" size hole at the corner of Cottonwood and Dunham, two more "front end smashers" at Mesquite and Power. It is getting more difficult to dodge all the holes in the Oakcrest subdivision. The Serenada subdivision has a drop-off on the right side serious enough to cause an accident or damage to their car.

My efforts have been met with procrastination and buck passing. The City of Georgetown and subdivision owners are shirking their responsibilities in road maintenance and the only solution as I see it is for those concerned to call or write a letter to responsible parties for a little "corrective action."

Gross sales in Texas for the last three months of 1976 exceeded $43.3 billion, raising the year's total to $142.4 billion, according to Comptroller Bob Bullock.

State and federal leases in offshore Texas petroleum provinces produced 80,254 barrels of crude oil during March compared with 89,379 a year ago and 47,344 in February.

Gov. Briscoe said he is giving "close scrutiny" to the bill which would ban insurance and drivers' license penalties for speeding violations in the 55-70 miles an hour range.

METRIPHOBIA. That metric system is not as bad as you might think. It's easy to learn and easy to work with. The trouble now is that what you read in the newspapers and the various brochures, are conversions from our present clumsy system. It doesn't come out even and that's why we see the flock of decimals and that scares people. When the metric system is finally adopted we'll be buying and selling in whole numbers. We'll buy a liter or half-liter of milk, a kilogram (kilo) of meat, we'll jog or drive so many meters or kilometers etc.

All we'll have to learn is the various prefixes, the milli, deka, centi, mega and so on. If we'll need to reduce or enlarge the number or amount we simply multilpy or divide by ten, as the case may be. Easy, like falling off a log.

YOU DON'T have to be big to be good. John E. Moore, popular Taylor grainman proves it everyday with his folksy but practical farm and agribusiness broadcast over the local radio. The 'big guys' of Dallas, Houston and San Antonio radios just read the Department of Agriculture handouts, most of them not very relevant to their area, and let it go at that. John's markets and information can be used, and is used, here and now, on the farms and ranches of his listening area.

ALICE, the service club of Granger is the Lions' Club. The president of the Club is George Heger, president of the Granger National Bank, and the secretary of the Club is B. O. Miller. I got this information from Frank Matula of the First State Bank in Granger. So you're in good company, with bankers. Money is no object. You may write to either and get you information. The Granger zip is 76530. I don't think you'll need fuller address. "Sonny" Bartosh, the good postmaster there knows everybody within hundred miles of the city. He'll put your letter in the right slot, or have it done.

Liberty Hill NEWS

By Howard N. Wilson

I was sitting here thinking about our town and how proud I am of it, wondering about the outcome of the Panthers' Baseball game when Marvin Brown called into "Morning Breakaway" and told Jack Josey about the 7 to 6 win over Poth. It goes without saying that I was tremendously pleased, but it really made me feel good when Jack and Lenora expressed their pleasure of the win—Liberty Hill and our fine High School is definitely on the way up, and with the spirit that prevails in our community we will continue this upward course!

Donnie Johnson was the winning pitcher in the opening game of the best-of-three series against Poth to determine the regional champion which was played at Round Rock last Tuesday evening. The second game will be played starting at 5 p.m. Friday at Poth; the third game, if it is needed, will be played immediately following the second game.

Our young men and our coaches have done and are still doing an excellent job of which they and everyone else in our area can be very proud. We know that Doug and Linda, Mary Ann and Wendell McLeod attended the game at Round Rock, as well as others we don't know about, and we want to urge everyone who can to follow the Panthers all the way—they will know and appreciate your presence and your support!

As always Saturday will be a busy day in Liberty Hill with the Market Day on Liberty Hill Square, the VFW Post No. 8200 Game Session in the cafetorium in the Liberty Hill School and other assorted activities.

The Homecoming and Reunion at our Liberty Hill Memorial Cemetery, which is expected to have a record attendance, should draw many people who will also be interested in getting their portrait made Sunday afternoon at the Liberty Hill Fire Hall. As a reminder, you can get this portrait, an 8x10 in living color, for only $4 and this is an unbeatable bargin—the entire $4 will be put in the treasury of the fire department to help in the continuation of the invaluable service they do for our community. Even if you don't want a portrait you can make a cash donation!

Even though "we are an hour late and a dollar short" we must say that we were very impressed by "The Centennial Edition of The SUN," and we sincerely congratulate Don and Clara Scarbrough on the achievement of this momentous event! We are expecting for them and The SUN many more years of continued success.

Tim Ater, the Editor of The LIBERTARIAN, whom I was very pleased to meet for the first time last Sunday afternoon, told us of his deep appreciation for the consistent high quality that The SUN maintains—certainly we concur!

The First Baptist Church of Liberty Hill will have its annual Vacation Bible School Monday, June 6, through Friday, June 10, with classes each morning from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. Registration will be held at the church starting at 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 4, with refreshments being served on that day and every other day of the Bible School. If possible the church bus will run each day of the Bible School, but we encouage you to make plans to attend regardless of how you get there.

The race track is 50 feet in length and participants must furnish their tricycles. There is a 50 cent entry fee and entrants are asked to release the city and the Chamber of Commerce from responsibility for accidents.

An old fashioned, heel-stompin' Square Dance has been planned for Tuesday night beginning at 8 p.m. on the Courthouse Square. Two professional callers, Slim Harrington of Harker Heights and Cecil Dunman of Austin, have been employed for the evening.

Street Dances, featuring the Debonaires (a country and western band), will be held from 8 p.m. to midnight on the courthouse square Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. Admission is free to the public.

The 34th Annual Williamson's County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the fair grounds in San Gabriel Park.

Carroll Johnson, posse lieutenant and rodeo committee chairman Tommy Steiner will be furnishing stock for this year's Professional Cowboy's Association Rodeo. Tickets for the rodeo will be available at the gate or can be purchased from any posse member.

The rodeo parade is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Thursday, June 23, and already more than 35 cars, floats and marching groups have completed entries.

Loyd Longley, of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, said that he is expecting at least 50 entries and he added that this could easily be one of the largest parades in the city's history. Longley extended an invitation to all businesses, clubs and organizations, and individuals in Georgetown and neighboring communities to participate in the parade.

Some of the entries already received for the parade include the Williamson County Sheriff's Posse, Georgetown Mayor John Doerfler, a float representing the city of Giddings, the First Calvary Marching Band from Ft. Hood, U. S. Representative Dan Kubiak, Smithville float, Lampasas float, Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, Round Rock float, the Gary Drill Team of San Marcos, a float from Taylor, a vintage 1884 and 1938 model firetruck from Round Rock, Llano Chamber of Commerce float, Austin Aqua Festival float, the Shirts and Skirts Square Dancers, Georgetown Chamber of Commerce float featuring Miss Georgetown 1977, the Pflugerville Riders Club, Travis County Sheriff's Posse, San Angelo Saddle Club, the Killeen Riding and Roping Club, the Brown County Sheriff's Posse and the Georgetown Sheriff's Posse.

★Mayor reviews

county government has zoning control over areas such as the land bordering the lake. However, he said that a bill recently before the state legislature would give the county governments some jurisdiction over zoning. "I would like to see the bill passed," the mayor commented.

Under the present circumstances zoning property won't be much concern because the Corps of Engineers will own all the land up to the proposed flood level and all public access to the lake which will be via Corp of Engineers land.

One of the community improvements that Mayor Doerfler is pleased to have completed during his term concerns drainage. "The San Jose area was always prone to flooding from Smith's Branch but we have almost finished construction of an improved drainage system."

An open drainage ditch on Ash Street has recently been dug out and improved with pipe and concrete fittings, the mayor said, and "the construction really improved the looks of the area."

The hike and bike bridge at San Gabriel, which was recently washed away, is another concern of Doerfler's. "I think that people were really beginning to enjoy the trail and we will work on getting it replaced next month."

He added that he hopes to design the bridge a little differently so that it would be more sturdy in the future.

Other accomplishments made by the city council during his first year as mayor included installing an in-line booster line to improve water pressure to the residents in Gabriel Heights, the city's purchase of the Odd Fellows Hall next to City Hall, purchase of a down town parking lot, negoiating a lease-agreement with the county commissioners for a new show barn, the construction of the Neighborhood Center, dedicationg the new fire station on Central Drive, and completion of the intake system from North Fork Lake.

Doerfler seems excited about the city's purchase of the Odd Fellows Hall and said that he hopes the city will use the building to expand the police station as well as providing extra office space.

The proposed county barn will be built by the county commissioners on land donated by the city. "It will be about as big as a football field," Doerfler said.

Although not as large as the mayor had hoped, the Georgetown Neighborhood Center is providing a needed service to the city. The center, which was part of the Urban Renewal projects, was built with the city's Revenue Sharing funds.

"One thing that we are going to have to deal with whether we like it or not," the mayor said, "is that Urban Renewal is about over and the city is going to have to buy all the lots in the project that were not sold."

"We don't know how many or how much yet but the government will give us credit that will help some," he added.

Doerfler spoke of a number of projects that he would like to at least get started before his term ends next spring. "I would like to finish the lines from the intake structure to the treatment plant."

The mayor estimated that the construction would cost the city about $60,000 but said that either Revenue Sharing or Community Development monies could be used to bear the burden.

"I would like to purchase some 25 acres of land adjacent to the present landfill near San Gabriel Park to be used as a sanitary landfill or an addition to the park facilities," Doerfler stated.

The mayor also said that he would like to resolve the parking problem around the square in Georgetown. "I know that parking is vital to the survival of the square," he said, "and I would like to purchase another parking lot for the city."

Doerfler said that his first year as mayor of Georgetown has been an enjoyable experience for him. "I've learned a lot and I really hope that I have done some good."

say it) a t-o-t-a-l s-t-r-a-n-g-e-r.

I HOPE THEY WERE WRONG. I found so many willing to share glimpses of their private lives, personal thoughts and feelings. Person-to-person, and never mind any of the other staff. Maybe I'm naive. Maybe I'm wrong. You'd have to tell me.

Someone on the SUN staff ought to check out Mr. Scarbrough's bio-rhythm chart. When he's on recharge, watch the staff "move their tails," as the expression of the day goes. The next day may find Mr. Scarbrough. . .and the staff. . .as placid as a pool of water. Funny.

Mrs. Armpy Davis decided that she would dictate (a reporter's worst nightmare) her story to me. Her problem was that she knew what she wanted to say, but then again, she didn't. She frequently asked husband Armpy's advise, then went right ahead and said what she was going to say in the first place. Armpy did stand his ground when he felt the need. The whole thing was evidently such a traumatic experience for Mrs. Davis that, when we finally concluded the "interview", she got up from her desk and threw her arms around me with a sigh of relief.

SHE'S A WARM, responsive person who frequently called me "honey." I'm glad she felt better. It's difficult to know what to say, or is it what not to say, when you're the owner of a funeral home.

Floyd Jones, as I said in my copy, is a "man who doesn't mince with words." That, coupled with a (stringent manner) made me a little wary, yet that old cliche about a "heart of gold" seemed an apt description of him.

He fussed over his photo — there was no way he would have that picture in the paper. Besides, he was all limbered up and ready to throw a dazzler of a smile at the camera, and was I ready for it? I was, and so I stood there gazing into my viewfinder, waiting. I waited some more. Finally I said, "Are you smiling, Mr. Jones. . .?" "Yes. . .," he replied. "Oh. . .," I replied, and took the picture. Luckily we did find the "real him." When he smiles naturally, the smile comes from his eyes, not his mouth.

Laughter is an abundant commodity in Georgetown. Many times I returned to the SUN weakkneed from exchanging volleys of one-liners.

Eula Morrison and I conducted all our business over a cup of coffee in her kitchen. We met just after her birthday, when her table still displayed gifts from friends and relatives. She shared her special memories of the surprise party given her over that weekend. We said goodbye just after Mother's Day, when she had a new hydrangea to show me. "I hope we'll see each other again," she said. I felt the same way.

TOM AND SHERRY GUYTON have such dreams for their new-and old- Berry Hardware. I hope that everything turns out well for them.

Lil Peterson, at the Flower Nook, I'll remember for a long time to come. . .What I'll remember, besides the pleasure of sharing good conversation, coffee and goodies, amid endless heaps and mounds of flowers, is her voice. Full of exhilaration and warmth. She ought to have it insured.

I dropped by "impromptu," to see Myrtle Farris. "What would I say?" she said. "I don't have anything important to say!" I suggested a few subjects she might have something interesting to say about. "No, nothing interesting. . .Well, there was the time. . . and then, of course. . . ." I staggered from her office much, much later, but only after we had polished up the ibids, op. cits and addendums, and she had informed me that she wasn't going to take an ad if she didn't like the copy, and if I didn't already know, she had a mind of her own, and (gasp) I was a "cute little girl." Little girl! Another with a heart of gold.

MR. SCARBROUGH USED TO tell me he couldn't understand anything I said because I talked too fast. I couldn't understand anything he said because he talked too slow.

How many times, as I gathered copy for my features, did I hear, ". . .but don't print that!" or, more subtly, ". . .but you don't really want to write about that!"

Georgetown, have I got a thing or two on you!

I'm impressed with the women I work with — bright, efficient, and so energetic. Seldom does anyone complain, but through the threads of conversation woven over the past few months, one common theme emerges: If only we had more time. We don't, because, despite the influence of the women's movement, we still go home to another job. So many of the responsibilities and obligations we find at home are still implicitly 'women's work." Change comes so slowly. When will it be acceptable for us to do "-just" our fair share? If you're looking in on this article in the year 2077, I hope you're able to nod your head and say, "It happened."

JIM ISBELL AND I had never met when I phoned about setting up a photo appointment at Texas Crushed Stone. Yes, he had a rather large group in mind, he said. Employees; nothing more. When I arrived, he greeted me with great enthusiasm and suggested we drive out to the quarry, to see what I thought of his "new idea" for a photo.

It seems they had wanted to take a picture of the whole gang (180 strong) for a long time and. . .here I was! And, of course, they had a huge fleet of cats, front-end loaders and . . . .The rest was drowned out as we stood there in that enormous pit, with the Texas sun overhead, and various trucks began to lumber in from all directions. Whatever I had to say to Jim, Bill and Ned Snead, slipped away as I absentmindedly wondered whether the 2 train engines on the track to my right were purposely coming in for the photo. I threw it out as a joke. "You don't suppose . . . ., heh, heh!" They were!

A VERITABLE SMALL-SCALE BATTLE of the Bulge evolved before my (very astonished) eyes, as trucks took their positions under orders from a field supervisor — their very own General Patton. Not one collision, much to my amazement. One miscue and we had all the makings of another "Earthquake."

At this point, "director-producer" Isbell (believe me, Georgetown's gain is Hollywood's loss) suggested, after I had hoisted myself up on a digger and tried, unsuccessfully, to focus the whole "cast," that I climb the rock mini-mountains to get the distance I needed! Sandals strung together with a twist or two of hemp did not do the job, and so Ned donned sneakers and offered me his boots.

AT LAST THE SUMMIT was reached and we stood there, hair damp on our foreheads, breathing wheezily, and continued, still, to watch the troops roll in. I thought it would never end.

I began to punctuate my replies to Jim's questions with nervous giggles — the whole thing was becoming incredibly funny. I mean were they really putting all their trust in li'l ol' me, with my li'l ol' itty bitty camera? (It was getting smaller by the minute; in fact, as I gazed at it, it was transforming itself into a camera-shaped rubber .squirt gun. Regardless of who got "wet" —them, or me — I was a loser.)

WE WERE READY. Jim would give the signal-hands flailed in a criss-cross pattern over head — when Canada's other Josef Karsh had finished her "creating." Click. Click, . . .and more. Finished. I uncrossed all my fingers and toes, and intoned words in the direction of the above that my film would be O.K.

A little business discussed amid much joking, and I was on my way back to the SUN. I did a quick mental scan of the remainder of my afternoon's schedule. Probably nothing exciting. Ah, but you never know what will happen. . . .you never know.

Cheers! SUN. It's been a pleasure.

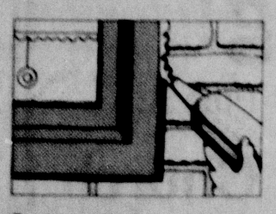
Air Conditioning and your electric bill.

The summer months in Texas are that time when the largest factor in most electric bills is operation of air conditioning equipment. On the average, air conditioning accounts for about half of summertime bills.

The most important single factor in holding down the cost of air conditioning is insulation.

Proper insulation blocks out heat. Six or more inches is recommended for attics, three or more inches for walls and two inches around the ducts of central systems. Insulation dealers or a TP&L Service Representative will help you determine the amounts you have and the amounts you may need to add.



Replace missing or worn weather stripping around door and window openings. Caulk around the outside of doors and windows where the frames meet the walls.

Keep fireplace dampers closed when not in use. Close blinds or drapes to block out direct sunlight.

Keep furniture and draperies away from air outlets and returns. Clean grills often.

Check filters every 30 days. If you have the permanent type, clean them by manufacturer's directions; if they're the disposable type, replace them when they're dirty.

Have your air conditioning equipment checked seasonally by a qualified serviceman.

Set the thermostat on 78 or higher. Turn equipment off if you will be away from home for several days or longer.

The Butch Hancock Band will begin the series on June 12, playing their original country and western music. Nova continues the series on June 19, performing various forms of American folk music — jazz, country & western, and blues — plus international music derived from the Middle East, Brazil, Eastern Europe, and Latin America. On June 26, La Primavera, whose unusual style is achieved through the use of period instruments contemporary to the music, will perform their popular and art music from the Middle Ages and Renaissance.

The Heritage Chamber Ensemble, performing July 10, specializes in classical and light popular music. Beto and the Fairlanes, performing at the final concert of the series on July 17, is a group made-up of individual members from other local name bands such as the Jazzmanian Devils, Out to Lunch, and 47X. As a "composers' group," all of their music is original, and exemplifies their attempt to blend rock, jazz, and salsa into a style that is all their own.

The Summer Concert Series, organized by Laguna Gloria Art Museum, is funded by the City of Austin. Further details may be obtained by calling the Museum at 458-8191.

I need the Answers to some SERIOUS QUESTIONS

Why am I here? What shall I do with my life? Where am I going? This young man is at the threshold of his adult life and needs the answer to some serious questions. Perhaps you find yourself pausing to take stock of your life and groping for direction.

The Church of the Living God tells the truth about man's life, death, and destiny. The truths learned there will set you free to live a more abundant, meaningful, and creative life. "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." John 8:32.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

TV Dial-ogue

DISCOPHILE-- Who is the head of Motown Records, and where can I write to him? I have an idea for a disco song. C.B., Bryan, Tex.

Barry Gordy is the head honcho at Motown. You can send your funky music to him at Motown, 6255 West Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

V-DAY-- I've been trying to get John Voight's mailing address, but to no avail. Would you know it or his agent's address? Peggy Gentile, Kendall Park, N.J.

Voight is a free-lance actor. The best place to write him at the moment is in care of the Screen Actors Guild, 7750 West Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90068. They will forward the letter for you.

CHIC SHEIK-- With all the remakes of old movies, why was 'The Sheik' never remade after the death of Rudolph Valentino? Will there ever be another 'Sheik'? Marva Hodge. Fond du Lac, Wis.

I suppose you know Valentino did two desert dramas in this mode. The second was a 1926 film called 'Son of Sheik,' with Vilma Banky as the female lead. After Valentino's death it was decided no one else could fill the part. But in 1937 Ramon Navarro made a spoof of the original called 'The Sheik Steps Out.' I doubt if the mad-cap English girl will ever again be snatched from the sands by the desert chief, but Rudy Nureyev is playing Valentino in a film biography, and scenes from 'The Sheik' will be re-dramatized.

CARRY ON-- There's a series of English-made films about the Carry On gang. I saw 'Carry On Teacher' and 'Carry On Nurse' on TV. How many have been made in all? J.K. Simpson, Miami, Fla.

The first, made in 1958, was 'Carry On Sergeant.' Since then the producers and cast have been carrying on at a ridiculous rate. About 25 of these low-budget pictures have been made so far.

AGELESS-- How old is Martin Milner? he doesn't look that old, but I saw him in 'Life With Father,' which is a really old movie. At least I think he was in it. Jaycee Ridder, Lebanon, Pa.

Don't let the boyish grin and freckles fool you. Milner is 50 years old. He was 20 when he appeared in 'Life With Father,' his film debut. Milner also did the TV series The Trouble With Father, in the early '50s before going on to Route 66, the great road series.

LEARING-- Where can I write to producer Norman Lear. I'm sick of his putting sex all over the TV screen? He is NOT funny. Arlene Gerbner, Fargo, N.D.

You can send your letter bomb (only kidding) to Lear at TAT, Metromedia Square, Los Angeles, CA. 90028.

MERVELOUS-- I think Merv Griffin is terrific. He talks a little too much but he always has better guests than the other talk shows and he's smarter. Besides, he's cute. Where can I write for tickets to the show? K.C., Los Altos, Calif.

Griffin and gang tape at the TAV Theatre, Vine Street, Hollywood, CA. 90028. Write there for ticket information.

VOICEOVERS-- I have two questions about film narrators. One, and this is for a bet, who narrated 'How the West Was Won'? The other one is who narrated 'Zulu'? Tom Blanchard, Keene, N.H.

If you said Spencer Tracy, you won your bet. 'Zulu,' a favorite adventure epic of mine, was narrated by Richard Burton.

ROOTS-- I saw a rerun of Bonanza a while back and it was directed by Robert Altman. Is this the same Altman as the director of 'McCabe and Mrs. Miller'and Nashville, etc. David Handler, Kettleman City, Calif.

One and the same Altman. Many now famous director got their start on the small screen. Not only did Altman do Bonanza, but Sam Pekinpah was a director on The Rifleman.

BIONIC GROOM-- Who is Lindsay Wagner married to, and where is he from? Lillian Douglas, Zephyrhill, Fla.

Lindsay Wagner married long-time roomie Michael Brandon last year. He's from Brooklyn, N.Y.If you want to know where he's from professionally, Brandon was last seen on the tube in 'Red Alert. He got his start in New York understudying Al Pacino in 'Does A Tiger Wear A Necktie?'

The Tony Awards Come to TV

Broadway will honor the best work appearing on its stages this year on June 5, when the annual Tony Awards presentations will be made. The award ceremonies have been televised since 1967, and the fact that these awards, important chiefly to theatre in New York City, have been able to capture a prime time audience across the country is a tribute to the quality of the awards itself.

Top singers and dnacers lend their talents to the show, performing numbers from the Broadway musical stage. The awards are presented by stars, many of whom are better known for their work in films or on television, but all of whom have appeared at least once in the Broadway theatre. As the occasion of the theatrical year, it brings forth a black-tie audience of celebrtities across the red carpted sidewalk and into the theatre.

The practice of recognizing theatrical excellence with the Antoinette Perry Award, or Tony, was begun in 1947 by the American Theatre Wing. The idea was greeted with enthusiasm within the theatre, and the awards had the dual purpose of conferring professional recognition and of serving as a memorial to Miss Perry, who had died in 1946.

Antoinette Perry was a leader of the American Theatre Wing and other welfare organizations, as well as being an actress, director, and producer. She was born June 27, 1888, and made her professional debut as Dorothy in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" in 1905. The first segment of her career in the theatre lasted only until 1909, when she married Frank W. Preauff and went into retirement until 1924, tow years after his death.

Having resumed her career, she appeared in a series of plays, mostly under Brock Pemberton's management, and also began to direct. She directed "Strictly Dishonorable" in 1929; "Personal Appearance" in 1934; "Janie" in 1942; and "Harvey" in 1944. She was the wartime leader of the American Theatre Wing, which had been founded in 1917 as a war relief organization, and which, in World War II, initiated fund raising programs, special performances for troops, and its Stage Door Canteen.

The Tony's continued to recognize each season's best efforts, and remained a source of pride within the profession, but were little known outside the theatre. In 1966 Helen Mencken, who was president of the American Theatre Wing and had overseen the administration of the Tonys, died. The Wing found it could no longer maintain the tradition by itself.

The League of New York Theatres and Producers undertook to carry on the Wing's work in this area, and a program was hastily assembled. It proved unsatisfactory, and there was talk of discontinuing the awards.

Alexander E. Cohen, a successful producer on Broadway and in the West End of London, was strongly in favor of continuing the Antoinette Perry Awards. Cohen felt that the awards offered a potentially important merchandising tool to the theatre. "It seemed to us," Cohen has said, "that if the Oscars and the Emmys could command network time with limited entertainment value, there was no reason why the theatre -- the best entertainment there is -- couldn't do the same."

The awards were first presented as a major television special in 1967, with Mary Martin and Robert Preston as hosts. Rather than assemble the program from the contributions of a variety of writers, as the other televised award shows did, Cohen felt the program would be better if it were done by one writer with one concept. Hildy Parks was given this script assignment, and her efforst have been much praised by critics and audiences alike. She has continued as writer for the program on an annual basis, and Cohen has continued as its producer.

The host-performers this year will include Jack Albertson, Jane Alexander, Buddy Ebson, Jean Stapleton, Vivian Reed, and Damon Evans.

Albertson, star of the television series "Chico and the Man," won a Tony Award for his performance in "The Subject Was Roses."

Miss Alexander, who has been nominated for an Emmy Award for her portrayal of Eleanor Roosevelt in "Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years," won a Tony Award for her performance in "The Great White Hope."

Buddy Ebsen, star of the television series "Barnaby Jones," began his career as a vaudeville dancer and appeared in the 1946 Broadway production of "Showboat."

Jean Stapleton, known to television viewers as Edith Bunker on "All in the Family," is also a respected stage actress whose credits include "Damn Yankees," "Rhinoceros," and "Funny Girl."

Vivian Reed stars in the Broadway musical, "Bubbling Brown Sugar," for which she received a Tony nomination last year.

"The Age of Uncertainty"

Galbraith Tutors a TV Audience

Scholarly John Kenneth Galbraith has taken his professorial background from the classroom to the television set in a unique 13-week series of lectures that he has designed to reflect his philosophies about economics.

The 13 dissertations are being carried over Public Broadcasting on Thursday nights at 9. The first dozen are one-hour programs. The finale is a 90-minute wrapup with the world's leading economists and political figures, including Henry Kissinger and former English prime minister Edward Heath.

The series already has been aired in England, which had first call since it was the BBC which produced the project. Galbraith looks upon it as a pet project which took four years to develop.

The umbrella title for the series is "The Age of Uncertainty." Galbraith narrates it with his typical, inoffensive lack of modesty. "My thoughts are generally right," he remarked recently when questioned about the program at a press conference in New York. In the series he starts 200 years ago with the Scottish economist Adam Smith and traces the core of economic philosophies up to the present.

Galbraith has attempted to present the series in a lecture form with a certain flare. He says he didn't want it to be boring.

"There are no educational values (to be realized) if people turn off their sets," he notes.

The reaction in Britain was largely favorable. The mail was enormous, Galbraith reports.

Animated illustrations accent the remarks of the lecturer. Galbraith even goes "on location." It is part of the new face of educational television that puts "The Age of Uncertainty" into the same elite category with Jacob Bronowski's "Ascent of Man" and Sir Kenneth Clark's "Civilisation," and earlier, the very first of the made-for-TV lecture series, Alistair Cooke's "America."

Galbraith, the former economics professor at Harvard and the Ambassador to India during President Kennedy's regime, declares the lessons of economics are important, informational, educational and interesting. From Adam Smith, through Marx, from classical capitalism to socialism and communism, the lessons are adaptable to televison and its broadening scope of communication.

This brings a new dimension to television, Galbraith suggests with a sly grin. "Pornography is out. Violence is out. Homosexuality is fairly in," he contends -- mockingly. "Economics are in. Sex runs second -- well behind economics."

Galbraith makes no pretenses about the directions of the series.

"The original idea was that it would be an unadulterated fashion of my thoughts," Galbraith said. He added wryly, "and I want to assure you that my thoughts are generally right."

At another point in the press conference, Galbraith referred to a commentary by William Buckley which winds up the first episode, and the noted economist observed: "pay no attention to him (Buckley). He's generally wrong. He's a nice man . . . I like him."

Through the 13 episodes, Galbraith insists that he has made no effort to appear condescending to the television audience, and that, in reality, he himself has emerged from this project with a new respect for television.

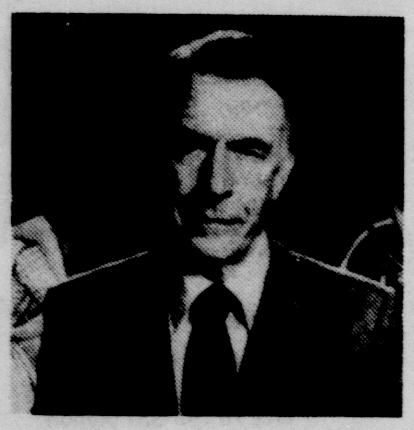
"No doublt, if I had delivered this lecture series 30 or 40 years ago (pre-television), it would have been useful to several generations in the lecture room, on the campus," Galbraith noted. "But now television adds the eye to the ear, as it reaches that massive audience."

In the weeks that follow, Galbraith will philosophize about "Karl Marx -- The

He discusses "The Rise and Fall of Money," dotes on big corporations, and gets into the arms race between Russia and the U.S. Massive Dissent, " manners and morals of high capitalism, Lenin and what Galbraith calls "The Great Ungluing."

He extrapolates on various forms of democracy, and finally, discusses "Weekend in Vermont."

The "Weekend in Vermont" episode was filmed at the Galbraith farm in Vermont. The round-table discussion included then Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and other important political figures. Consequently, the Galbraith farm was over-run with Secret Service people.



There could be a series of that gathering in itself. Galbraith reported that 18 roles of film were shot, and that it had to be severely edited for the 13th episode.

In the course of conversation, Galbraith put forth some political philosophies as well. He remarked that in reality there are three political parties in the United Sates: Liberal, Conservative, and Prudent.

"President Ford very nearly made it as a coalition of the Conservatives and the Prudent," Galbraith declared.

Galbraith was asked if it was possible to have a coalition of Liberals and Prudents.

"I don't know," he responded. "But if it is, I'm prepared to join it."

Someone asked Galbraith if he had any thoughts regarding the Nixon-Frost television interviews.

"Well, I always thought that Frost and Nixon deserved each other," he replied.

In the weeks that follow, Galbraith will philosophize about "Karl Marx -- The Massive Dissent," manners and morals of high capitalism, Lenin and what Galbraith calls "The Great Ungluing."

TV Star Scene

Robert Stack is plenty upset about the recent cancellation of his ABC series, Most Wanted. He feels the network handled the series' time slot poorly, pre-empting it twice after it won out over its competition the previous two weeks . . . Apparently Johnny Cash is not quite as disenchanted with television as he made out after his last poorly-received special. He's just signed an exclusive three-year contract with CBS and will star in two musical-variety specials for the network next season.

Mary Tyler Moor Enterprises is giving a big push to the Betty White-Georgia Engel series it sold to CBS for next season. They've assigned one of their top guns from the old MTM series, Bob Ellison, to produce the situation comedy for the 1977-78 season . . . Paramount TV has begun production on "Inside the Third Reich." The memoirs of Hitler aide Albert Speer are being prepared as a 10-part miniseries for NBC.

Dick Van Patten, the father on the recently-renewed ABC series "Eight Is Enough," will join the cast of Mel Brook's theatrical film "High Anxiety" this summer. Others in this take-off of the Hitchcock classic "Vertigo" are Madeline Kahn, Dom De Luise and Cloris Leachman . . . Clam-ra Dale, Ben Vereen and Tony Bennett are among the names signed to perform with conductor Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra on PBS Evening at Pops series beginning July 10.

Ann-Margret, whose recent country-western outing with Bob Hope, Perry Como and Minnie Pearl was a ratings winner, joins TV's Columbo, Peter Falk, in Neil Simon's detective spoof, "The Cheap Detective."

Filming begins this summer . . . Piper Laurie, fresh from her Oscar-nominated comeback in "Carrie," joins TV veteran Brian Keith in NBC's TV-movie "In the Matter of Karen Ann Quinlan." They'll portray the parents of the comatose New Jersey girl whose fate was debated across the nation last summer.

"The Waltons" has been awarded yet another citation for its inspiring family image, this time from the American Mothers Committee . . . Shields and Yarnell, the talented husband-and-wife mime team who first gained national recognition on the Sonny and Cher show, will have their own summer series on CBS beginning June 13 . . . Viewers can learn about their ills, ailments and cures in comprehensible, everyday language when MD, a series of 13 medical information programs, premieres on PBS June 8.

CBS Sports Spectacular has an unusual competition coming up June 11 when they telecast the World Series of Poker from Las Vegas. Each competitor will put up $10,000, and the winner-takes-all . . . "The Four Feathers," the A.E.W. Mason classic about British soldiers in the Sudan, will get yet another reincarnation. NBC is filming the novel as a TV movie for next season, with Beau Bridges as the stiff-upper-lipped hero . . . Herbie Mann will bring his sizzling talent as jazz flutist to PBS' At the Top series June 30.

Two of the biggest winners from the "Roots" bonanza, author Alex Haley and star LeVar Burton, are involved in separate projects for next season. Haley will narrate "I Shall Moulder Before I Am Taken," a public broadcasting documentary about the present-day descendants of the African slaves of Surinam, South America. Burton has undertaken the title role of "Billy," an NBC TV-movie about a ghetto youngster striving to make a better life for himself . . . CBS has joined with General Mills to produce an admirable children's series for next fall. Titled "The Winners," the monthly series will focus on how young people can reach their goals, despite personal and physical obstacles.

Game 1: Liberty Hill 7, Poth 6

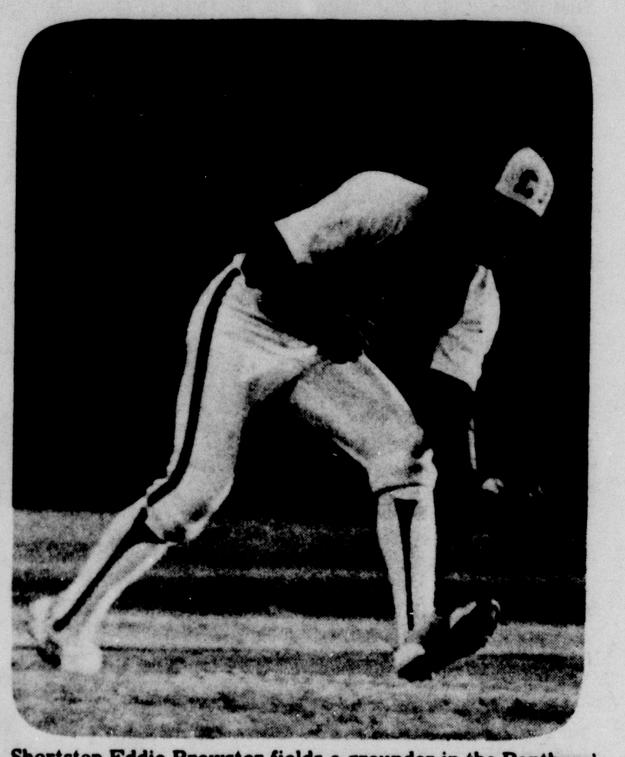
With a season record of only 8-11, Liberty Hill still had the chance Friday night to end its season with a regional championship. The Class A Panthers were playing Poth, one game away from the region crown.

Liberty Hill won the first game of the series Tuesday night in Round Rock with four unearned runs and six strong innings by pitcher Donnie Johnson left.

Should the Panthers take one of the last two games of the series, they would win the region, but would advance no farther. Only Class AAA and AAAA teams have state championships.

But for an 8-11 team, even a regional championship is a big step.

Donnie Johnson, who went the distance in Liberty Hill's first game win over Poth, hurls in the second inning of that game. He was the winner, 7-6, his eighth victory of the season.



Shortstop Eddie Brewster fields a grounder in the Panthers' regional win.

Fishing license fees increasing

Recent action by the 65th Texas Legislature increases sport fishing license fees for both residents and non residents and makes those licenses purchased after June 1, 1977, valid through August 31, 1978.

Those bought prior to June 1 will expire one year from date of purchase.

As of September 1, 1977, fees for resident sportfishing licenses will go up from $4.25 to $4.50, and those for non-residents will increase to $10.50.

Now, both fishing, hunting and the combination fishing and hunting licenses will be valid from September 1 of one year through August 31 of the following year.

License sales officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department say anyone who buys a fishing license in June 1977 will be allowed to fish for 15 months at the old price of $4.25.

Two marijuana busts at 3rd Bootys crossing

Six persons were arrested by the Sheriff's Department for misdemeanor possession of marijuana in two separate incidents near the 3rd Bootys Crossing (Box crossing) of the North San Gabriel River last weekend.

Three persons were arrested Friday morning, May 27, after being caught smoking marijuana in a pipe by two Sheriffs deputies.

Three persons were also arrested Sunday evening, May 29, after being seen sharing a marijuana cigarette by Sheriff August Bosshard and two deputies.

ON MAY 27 at 8:45 a.m. Sheriff Bosshard, Chief Deputy Leon Kelley and Deputy Jim Boutwell reported seeing two men and a woman smoking a pipe at the waters edge near the 3rd Bootys Crossing.

The three officers reported smelling marijuana smoke, approaching the water and getting within about 25 feet of the three smokers before they were noticed.

Officers reported that one of the men attempted to empty the pipe into a small campfire, and reported finding a small quantity of marijuana in a plastic bag inside the woman's purse.

Arrested were Paul Edmund Berndt III, 25, of 700 Coupland in Austin; John Wolf, 21, of 308 W. University in Georgetown; and Amy Spellman, 18, of 1504 E. 18th in Georgetown.

ON MAY 29 Kelley and Boutwell were near the 3rd Bootys Crossing again when they heard loud music coming from the river.

They reported spotting three persons, two males and one female, sitting on a gravel bar and then walking about 100 feet away.

Kelley reported seeing a partially opened cigarette box left where the three persons had been sitting. He also noticed one hand rolled yellow cigarette visable among the others in the box.

The offense said that the three persons then lit a cigarette and shared it, "smoking it in a manner indicating to these officers that it was probably marijuana."

ARRESTED was Alex Bostrom, 17, of Route 2, Airport Road in Georgetown and two juveniles.

After searching their car, Boutwell found a plastic container in the glove box containing less than one ounce of marijuana.

Florence water rates may jump in June

The aldermen of the Florence City Council are expected to propose a rate increase on city residents for water, sewer and garbage services when the council holds its regular June meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Customers of the city are presently paying a minimum of $3 per first 2,000 gallons of water, $1.25 for the second 1,000 gallons and $.75 per 1,000 gallons after that. If the council proposal is passed it is likely that customers could be paying as much as $4 minimum for the first 2,000 gallons and $2.25 and $1.50 per 1,000 gallons after that.

The first topic listed on the agenda, however, is 34 percent rate increase requested by the Texas Power and Light Company. TPA requested the increase in January but the aldermen have managed to stall the increase until now.

The engineering firm of Dunlap Associates will present a report to the council concerning the city's application for a grant to replace the town's existing sewer collection main.

Representatives of the Florence Volunteer Fire Department are also expected to make a report before the aldermen.

Call 863-6555 To Place Your Classified Ad.

When should you call the Georgetown Police?

WHEN SHOULD you call the police?

Should you call and request an officer to fix your leaking faucet? Should you call to complain that your garbage isn't hauled away?

Should you call because your neighbor's dog is howling?

Should you call to air your gripes against a neighbor or spouse?

You probably should not call about ticky tack, trivial, and inconsequential matters. For example, the animal warden is the person to contact if your neighbor's dog is filling your eardrums with sounds that are less than musically sweet. Says Chief Travis Thomas, "Calling an officer to quieten a dog is like calling a plumber to fix your TV. The animal warden should be called, not the police. Call the right person."

YOU SHOULD, however, never feel reluctant to dial when you see an incident that arouses your suspicion, a crime has been committed, or one is in progress.

For example, you arrive home. You're a burglarly victim. Chief Thomas emphasized that you should not conduct your own investigation before calling police. "Don't handle all the evidence. Call us right away."

By the same token, don't expect police to rush out and arrest somebody based on a gripe session on the phone. An officer, called to the scene of a family squabble, cannot arrest a spouse simply because one mate is upset and says "arrest him!" Chief Thomas says that arrest requires that you file a complaint before a judge, at which time you've lodged a formal complaint and subsequent action can be taken.

AN OFFICER CAN, however, make an arrest where he has seen an accident, has a warrant, or has probable cause. "It is very important that Georgetown residents report all crimes so that we have something to go on," said Chief Thomas.

"They should never take the attitude that nothing will be done or that letting us know is too much hassle.

"Three crimes that people are reluctant to report are rape and female assault, child abuse, and petty theft. One thing is certain, if we don't hear about it, our hands are tied."

Let's assume you want to report a problem to the police. What happens from the time you call?

FIRST, the dispatcher takes details. An officer is then assigned to check it out. An incident report is written. An incident report may cover anything from helping a driver whose auto stalled to suspicions regarding a major crime.

If a major crime was committed, an offence report is made by the investigating officer.

When a person is taken into custody for the above offence an arrest report is then written.

SPEEDING, for example, might result in an officer issuing a citation and an arrest report being written (a citation is technically a form of arrest with the motorist in this case promising to appear and pay a fine).

If, however, an officer discovers the vehicle is stolen, an offence and arrest report will be made. Felony crimes would result in the suspect being fingerprinted and held. Misdemeanors usually do not require offence reports being filed.

Misdemeanor traffic violations work a little differently.

A person is issued a citation and given twelve days to contact the court and make arrangements to either plead guilty and pay a fine or else, if in disagreement, ask that a trial date be set. Speeding continues to be a major contributor to serious injury and deaths in our state and the Georgetown Police Department will stop any motorist speeding excessively or suspected of driving under the influence.

Failure to appear in court results in issuing a warrant, and penalties (in addition to the original citation) could range as high as $200.

DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE continues as a serious concern in Williamson County. Those cited appear before a judge, are told of the charges, and advised of their rights. If the charge is a bailable offence the citizen can post bond. If bond cannot be posted, the individual goes to jail.

Where a person has local ties in the community and the arrest is made after the magistrate's regular office hours, the sheriff might set bond, then release the person.

Chief Thomas cites theft as a growing concern. The hot item is CB's. Where stolen property is recovered, a person often cannot present proper identication because they have not kept good records of what they own nor placed identifying marks (such as license plate number) on their personal belongings. To say "I'd know that scratch or dent anywhere" isn't proper identification.

Chief Thomas says the Georgetown Police Department will loan out engravers to residents so they can label their possessions as a protection against theft. He encourages the registering of bicycles with the department for the same reason.

Thomas said he wants all citizens of Georgetown to feel they can confidently rely on their police department to help them enjoy the benefits derived from living in a protected and safe community.

County gains 5½ thousand new voters in 1976

The State Comptroller's office mailed a $2,308 check to Williamson County Tuesday as payment for issuing and processing voter registration certificates from February 1, 1976 through January 31, 1977.

The county is paid 40 cents by the state for each certificate issued or canceled.

Williamson County had 26,270 registered voters on February 1, 1976 and added 5,581 new voters by January 31, 1977. There were also 189 cancellations, usually because of people moving out of the county.

According to Williamson County Tax Assessor Collector William Buck, the state pays the county for each new registration and cancellation made during even numbered years.

On odd numbered years the county receives 40 cents for the total number of voters plus the number of new registrations issued. So, last year the county got a $7,532 check for voter registrations in 1975.

Payments for 1976 registrations to counties ranged from a low of $6.80 to Donley County up to $117,141 to Dallas County.

Three counties — Brewster, Fisher and Madison — did not submit the necessary paperwork on time.

After scalding death

Couple arrested

A Jollyville couple was arrested by Sheriff's deputies Thursday night on charges of injury to a child in connection with the scalding death of their 5 year-old son on May 8.

Santos Molina Alvardo Sr., 27, and his wife Amelia Cisneros Alvardo, 24, are being held in the Williamson County Jail. Bond has been set at $5,000 each.

THE BOY DIED, after spending 11 days in Brackenridge Hospital, from burns received when he fell into a bathtub of scalding water.

The hospital report stated that there were conflicting reports from the parents about how long they had waited after the incident to seek medical help, but both estimated that it had been at least two days before the child was taken to the hospital.

THE ALVARDO'S said they did not take the child to the hospital immediately because they did not have a car.

A Williamson County Grand Jury indicted the Alvardo's on Tuesday, June 2, for injury to a child.

Mrs. Alvardo had said to police that in preparing a bath, she had poured boiling water into the tub because her hot water heater did not work.

SHE SAID the child, Santos Molina Alvardo Jr., had fallen into the tub.

The boy was taken to Brackenridge hospital on April 28, by Mrs. alvardo and her sister-in-law.

The Sheriff's department reported that the child had received 1st, 2nd and 3rd degree burns on his back, buttock, leg, feet and right arm. He had burns on 35 percent of his body.

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Leon Kelley and Deputy Jim Boutwell arrested Mrs. Alvardo in their home in Jollyville at approximately 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 2.

KELLEY AND BOUTWELL returned later and arrested Mr. Alvardo, who had not been home earlier, at approximately 9 p.m.

The couple's other child, a 6 year-old girl, is temporarly under the custody of the Williamson County Child Welfare Board.

MRS. SANTOS ALVARDO is brought to the Williamson County Sheriff's office Thursday evening by Chief Deputy Leon Kelley (left) and Deputy Jim Boutwell. Mr. and Mrs. Alvardo were arrested Thursday for injury to a child.

Western Week to be biggest ever

With a Texas-style bang, plans for the coming Western Week in Georgetown are rapidly taking shape.

Western Week has been scheduled for June 20 to June 25 and members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Williamson County Sheriff's Posse are planning to make this one of the biggest events of the year.

A variety of activities, ranging from a tricycle race for daddys to a rodeo for professional cowboys, have been scheduled and many others are in the making.

A Skateboard Tournament, begining at 6 p.m. Monday, June 20, will kick off the week's activities and offers prizes for contestants. The tourney, which is divided into three categories, is open to men and women of every age. The tournament will be held in the Southwestern Plaza parking lot where courses for the cross-country, freestyle and slalom races will be prepared.

Designed as a skilled event for amateurs, the skateboard tourney will be supervised by representatives of Arrowsmith Skateboard Inc. of Austin. They will supply rules, techanical layout for the courses and judges.

The chamber reports that workers are needed for the tournaments as well as participants, both young and old. The tourney will be in three divisions for men and three for women. Ages to ten, from 11 to 15 and then from 16 up will compete against one another.

The top male and the top female scorers will be awarded an Arrowsmith Skateboard. There is a $1 entry fee for each event and the Chamber of Commerce asks that each participant sign a release so that the city nor the Chamber of Commerce would be held responsible in case of an accident.

Monday has also been set aside for a Tricycle Race and the Moonwalk will be set up for the enjoyment of kids of all ages.

Fun Day, as the first day of Western Week has been slated, activities will all be located on the parking lot of Southwestern Plaza in Georgetown.

The tricycle contest will begin at 6:30 p.m. and entrants will be divided into three age groups, 0-3, 4-6, and Daddys.

First, second and third place ribbons will be awarded in each category.

Rock festival?

An emergency meeting of the Williamson County Commissioners Court has been called for Monday at 10 a.m. to discuss a proposed "rock festival" in the Florence area on June 18.

The meeting will be held at the Courthouse on June 7.

Mayor reviews year, sets new goals

After serving Georgetown as mayor for a little more than a year John Doerfler is proud of the city's accomplishments but says that there are still a lot of projects that need to be started or completed.

"Probably one of the most important decisions the city council made this last year," Doerfler said, "was to build a second water storage facility."

He said that a shortage of storage space surfaced last summer and caused a number of residents inconvenience. "We have enough wells and water to take care of our population but we did not have enough space to store what was needed," the mayor added.

Although it will not be needed for a projected five years, Doerfler said that he is glad that the city fathers are thinking ahead and preparing the system to take water from the North Fork Lake, presently under construction by the Corp of Engineers, to a proposed water treatment plant.

"The dam itself should be finished in a year or so," he said, "but it will probably be 1980 before we will use it as a water source." The mayor added that Georgetown would not need the extra source until that time.

The aldermen have made an agreement with the Corp of Engineers to lease the property for the city's treatment plant, intake lines and water lines, Doerfler explained, and Community Development funds paid for the construction of the intake system.

Even though the new lake will fall outside the Georgetown city limits Doerfler said, "The area falls into our extra-territorial jurisdiction which extends for a one-mile radius around the city."

One of my coffee-drinking friends has a saying, "Everybody wants to go to heaven but nobody wants to die."

ALL OF US WANT gasoline saved but nobody wants to cut down on his own driving.

Gasoline consumption appears to be headed for a record high this summer with an estimated 7.7 million barrels going through the carburetors daily. Overall, the United States is now importing an average of 8.3 million barrels (about $15 per barrel) of crude oil daily, an increase of 39 percent over last year, up 91.5 percent from the year before and about 109 percent higher than the 1973 pre-embargo days.

President Carter's energy package, which most of us don't want to buy, might be expected — optimistically — to cut our gasoline consumption 10 percent by 1985. At our current rate of spending we will have blown $400 billion for foreign oil by then, our country will be short of money and what we have left won't buy much. That's the pessimistic view and, of course, there's an optimistic prophesy which says that by 1985 we'll have most of our troubles behind us.

IF THE TEXAS legislature can pass a comprehensive school bill in a special session it should have been able to pass one in the regular session just finished. Governor Briscoe said this week he may call the solons together if the leaders agree on a bill that is likely to obtain a two-thirds majority vote. A special session, says the governor, would also work at a bill to give utility customers some relief by removing the 4 percent sales tax on those bills. Again, why couldn't this have been accomplished in the regular session and saved the taxpayers about a million bucks?

It was good news this week from Cong. Pickle's office that the San Gabriel dams are funded and can proceed at an uninterrupted pace toward completion. Jake and Cong. Poage, with the help of Senators Tower and Bentsen, have really stayed on top of this project and deserve our unanamous vote of thanks for their interest and good work.

HISTORIC GEORGETOWN is the theme of the float sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce featuring Miss Georgetown, Rebecca Commagere, and her duchesses, Missy Kingery and Cindy Stefanov. Bonnie Schaefer is shown here sprucing up the float for the Western Week Parade June 22. Incidentally, Mrs. Schaefer and the royalty won a second place ribbon Thursday in a parade in Llano.

Canadian gal has a story to tell of Georgetown experience

Editor's Note: We wanted our ad-copy lady to tell us how she found Georgetown, after a couple of years in Austin and a lifetime in Canada, where she worked for a couple of daily newspapers. We asked her to tell and, below, she told us.

I hate saying goodbye. The clean break with the past-like the thrust of a razor-sharp sword — is not for me. I prefer to fantasize right up to the very last second; to pretend that things will continue as they were and are and then, days later, to sneak in the back door by phone or letter and say what I need to say.

THAT WAY, I CAN HANDLE IT. This story will be my way of backing into my goodbyes to the SUN staff — always the best to me — and to the Georgetowners I've come to know, however briefly.

Most Georgetowners treated me well, very well. "Most" just two businessmen, both of whom squared off against me — feet astride and arms braced — and let me know that they weren't the least bit interested in participating in the Centennial edition. (Reminded me of the New England "salts" I loved to talk to in my travels to the Maine coast). That's fair . . . expressing their feelings and thoughts, honestly. I don't equate polite behavior with saying "yes" to an ad.

Soliciting ads was something I hadn't anticipated but, as happens in any small business, people don't bother much with job descriptions. The whole idea is to get the job done. I was hired to write ad copy — in feature story foremat — and take photographs, about 2 months ago. It had been years since I had worked for a newspaper, and while I could hardly wait to get at it, I had to acknowledge that I was nervous. Make that NERVOUS.

I think Mr. and Mrs. Scarbrough were nervous, too, both about the issue, and about me. Though they didn't exactly say it, I felt there were a few strikes chalked up against me: I was a (horrors) "City Slicker" from Austin; I was a (gadzooks) "Yank," (Mr. Scarbrough used the term loosely with me because I had lived in New England for several years; in fact, I'm Canadian. (Is that a borderline Yank?); and, worst of all, I was (dare I

AMERICAN MONEY FOR AFRICA?

Our hip-shooting U. N. Ambassador Andrew Young is urging American money for the backward nations of Africa.

HE WANTS A KIND of "Marshall Plan" for Africa, he says.

The United States "has to do it," he says, "to keep those countries from turning Communist."

Repeatedly Young has had to backtrack or apologize for intemperate utterance which were an embarrassment either to others or to ourselves.

Yet he says—though I do not quite understand this—that President Carter wants him to be controversial.

His predecessor, Pat Moynihan, attracted much attention to himself with his blunt outspokenness. He called the U.N. General Assembly "a theater of the absurd."

He called Idi Amin of Uganda "a racist murderer."

Repeatedly, however, Ford and Kissinger supported Moynihan and pleaded with him to stay on.

SO THERE MUST be certain advantages to having a representative in the United Nations who is able and willing to say some necessarily undiplomatic things to get the attention of the less enlightened nations which are now a majority in the General Assembly.

But where Moynihan's thrusts were carefully calculated for a purpose—Young's idea of saying something outrageous just for the sake of "controversy" is inconceivable.

Young has accused Britain of being "chicken" on racial matters.

For that remark he had to issue a public apology.

Young said that Cuban troops "bring a certain stability and order to Angola."

For that his boss, State Secretary Cyrus Vance, had to issue a flat contradiction.

THE MOST DISTURBING utterance by Young so far was when he said that in the event of an East-West showdown in Africa, black American troops would mutiny rather than fight on the white side of the South Africans.

He mentioned that American armed forces are 30 percent black and predicted there would be "civil war" at home.

That remark, of course, unconscionably slandered the patriotism of black Americans.

MORE WORRISOME—since it has not been denied—is a remark by Young that he feels President Carter wants him to "take charge of Africa."

There is an unrecognized contradiction here.

The once-backward nations of South Africa and Rhodesia were developed with the aid of British money and know-how. That is how whites, protecting their investment and harvesting its fruits, came to control those countries.

Ambassador Young has said repeatedly that he wants African rule of Afrikaans, so this would require that we send money with no strings. That's not a Marshall Plan; that is worldwide welfare.

Airport for Round Rock

An airport for booming Round Rock is in the air — so to speak — but not everyone appears to be gung-ho on the project.

AN INDICATOR of that feeling appeared in the Round Rock Leader this week with an opening question followed with commentary:

"Does Round Rock need an airport? It seems the Federal Aviation Administration wants to do a study to decide.

Airports take many acres off the tax rolls and put them on the city's maintenance budget. Several city councilmen have expressed opposition to the idea (Tim's is only a few miles to the south; Georgetown a few miles north; and Taylor only slightly farther east), but the prospect of a "free federal study" appeals to some.

We don't know about Round Rock, but everyone in Georgetown is pleased that our city does have a fine airport facility. It is definitely an asset. Whether we would want one if we had a facility such as it or Tim's within four or five miles of our city limits would have to be answered — probably — in a funding vote by the taxpayers.

Fortunately, we got our airport about 35 years ago, when land was cheap, thanks to some far-sighted community leaders who had a friend in Washington by the name of LBJ.

S.U. still humming

Summer brings a slowdown on the Southwestern University campus but not much.

WE ARE HAPPY to see Dr. Fleming and his people moving more strongly into summer activities, which opened with classroom studies Friday of this week. Also, a summer recreation program under the watchful eye of Athletic Director Dr. "Tex" Cassens and baseball coach Jim Mallon will be simultanously underway.

Information of the summer school courses, which end July 12, and other special programs is available at the admissions office.

Southwestern has a magnificent campus that is costly to maintain, even when the place is vacated by the students. So, it makes good sense to utilize those facilities as much as possible all through the summer, almost everyone around here would agree.

Why they protest SST's coming

By David Anable

Rosedale, New York

7:37. p.m. There we were sitting in Joe Ewald's kitchen when the house began to vibrate.

"It's a screacher," says Joe taking another sip of lemonade. "Must be a 707."

An ear-stunning whine and roar drowns further talk. Through the insect screen on the kitchen door we catch a passing glimpse of the four-engined Boeing 707 as it dips just above the garage roof down toward the runway of Kennedy International Airport.

It's a typical Tuesday evening for the weary middle-class residents of Rosedale in the New York borough of Queens.

The peple who live in these modest, one- and two-family, wood-frame homes deeply believe in the flag and the country and "Mom."

They're proud to be hard-working "law and order freaks." They provide recruits for the Army, patrolmen for the police, volunteers for the firehouse, sturdy kids for Little League baseball.

Yet these are the people who have taken to the streets in their Chevies, their Fords, and their Plymouths, snarling airport traffic in outraged protest against the possible arrival of that pride and joy of Anglo-French technical achievement, the supersonic Concorde.

7:39 p.m. A deeper, crescendoing thunder swamps conversation. A 747 Jumbo makes its brief appearance at the kitchen door — "the Whisper jets, they're the best," shouts Geraldine Ewald.

Joe, a massive construction worker with bristling brown hair and moustache, is chairman of "ROAR" — an anti-Concorde acronym originally standing for "Rights Of All Rosedale" but later broadened hopefull to "Return Our American Rights." Mike Biggio, an accountant from across the street, is "national coordinator." The "sergeant at arms" is a neighboring bus driver named (appropriately enough) Jack Deliver.

The Ewald kitchen burns with their collective fury and frustration . . . against the New York Port Authority which operates Kennedy, against the airlines, against politicians whose attention span is limited to election campaigns, against city cuts in police, fire, and library services, against rising taxes and prices, against France's President Giscard ("discard") d'Estaing.

It's quickly clear that Concorde is merely the last strew that threatens to break the back of Rosedale's deeply ingrained, law-abiding patience. The supersonic transport has become a symbol of all authority's apparent disregard for middle-class values and hopes.

"It's the buildup of everything, they're choking me to death," says Joe. "And then this Concorde comes along and I say, 'hey, man, wait a minute. . . .'"

7:42 p.m. A 747 swoops slowly past with a voice-obliterating whine.

The Mikes, Joes, Jacks, and Geraldines of Rosedale have had enough. Whatever the result of test service at Washington's Dulles International Airport, they are irrevocably convinced that Concorde landings at Kennedy will add unbearable decibels to their present discomfort. They distrust the U.S. Department of Transportation's proposed 16-month "trial period" as the thin end of an unstoppable wedge.

"We know . . . that once they put the SST into service it'll soon run into 30 to 50 flights a day. Eventually they'll all be SSTs."

7:44 p.m. A Boeing 727 thunders over.

Why don't these people leave Rosedale? Because it's home. Jack's lived here all his life. Joe's lived here or in neighboring Elmont. "We're fighting for every aspect of our community. Concorde constitutes the most serious threat yet to our community life."

What about those takeoff rules calling for a hard right turn out over the bay? "They can make all the rules they want, but they don't enforce them," says Joe.

7:46 p.m. The devastating, jarring shriek of a 707 fills the kitchen and shakes the walls.

And what if the courts decide finally that the federal trial period must be honored?

"I figure they'll have to have martial law around JFK; they'll have to call out the National Guard," says Joe. "If it's going to be war, I've got a lot of people behind me."

STATE Capital NEWS

AUSTIN — Legislators headed for home this week, pronouncing their session a success in many areas.

They also departed amid warnings in both houses that the level of income will not sustain another 37 per cent increase in spending without a major tax bill in 1979.

Lawmakers completed action on the record $15.5 billion biennial spending bill three days before the adjournment deadline, clearing the decks for late concentration on school finance and miscellaneous issues.

The session turned out a variety of anti-crime bills recommended by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and legislative leadership. Other crime-control measures were casualties of the session.

Lawmakers months ago allocated $528 million in additional funds to highway building and maintenance. The measure already has been signed into law by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Also signed early was the coal slurry pipeline bill giving operators of pipelines to move coal mixed with water authority to take needed lands for right of way.

The session saw a new record for filibusters — 43 hours — set by Sen. Bill Meier of Euless. The measure Meier attacked — to close certain Industrial Accident Board records to those who would seek to copy and sell them to employers — made it through the Senate.

Many thought the session also set some kind of record for dullness.

It seemed to convince nearly everybody there are too many bills introduced to take care of in a 140-day meeting, but no restrictions are likely in the future.

Tax Income Up

Tax collections for the current fiscal year are 16 per cent above the same period in 1976, and the state closed books at the end of March with a cash balance of $1.31 billion.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said tax collections through the first seven months of fiscal 1977 (Sept. 1, 1976-March 31, 1977) were $2.25 billion. That is $315.8 million over the first seven months of fiscal 1976.

Motor vehicle sales taxes boomed 25 per cent and natural gas production taxes 33 per cent in that period.

A 159 per cent jump in corporate franchise taxes revenue was traceable largely to release of funds paid under protest from settlement of a court case.

Bullock reported total state revenues thus far in fiscal 1977 are $3.8 billion, up 11 per cent over 1976. Total state expenditures during the same period were $3.95 billion, an increase of only one per cent.

Standards Deferred

The Texas Air Control Board, on Gov. Dolph Briscoe's request, has put off tough enforcement standards for pollution control that might have forced cancelling of many industrial projects.

Briscoe suggested an all-out effort to improve air quality before the enforcement crackdown. He estimated shutting down projects that failed to meet federal air standards may halt $2.5 billion in industrial construction and cause loss of jobs.

Atty. Gen. John Hill said he has suggestions for state legal steps to insure more equitable enforcement of the federal clean air act by the Environmental Protection Agency "and to prevent a self-defeating no growth policy . . ." Hill said he wants to convince Congress the "bankrupt emissions trade-off policy" should be abandoned.

Courts Speak

The Supreme Court upheld the will of a 19-year-old woman student who left about $70,000 to Texas A&M University. The student was killed in an auto accident and her will challenged by her mother and half sister.

In other actions the high court held:

A $200,000 judgment is valid against a Houston railroad for falsely reporting tests showed an injured employee had taken methadone.

Fire marshals' investigative reports are not covered by the open records law.

Deeds reserving mineral rights in general do not reserve minerals that can be extracted only by substantial destruction of the surface.

AG Opinions

A provision of the auto Safety Responsibility Act for suspending drivers' licenses where a persor fails to pay a judgment does not apply unless the judgment arises out of a motor vehicle accident on the highways, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The Committee to Study the Selection Process of Chief Administrative Officers of Component Institutions of the University of Texas System does not have to comply with the open meetings act.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN—Gov. Dolph Briscoe looked as uncomfortable as a man who's told he's wanted for dinner —only to find out he's the guest of cannibals.

Briscoe had come over to the Senate to watch the final moments of the regular session of the 65th Legislature. And as he watched, it became evident that there were few changes for the House and Senate to agree to a public school finance bill.

PUBLIC SCHOOL FINANCE was one of the four main areas of endeavor listed by the governor in his address to the 65th Session in January. And it was considered by many to be the prime issue of the session— certainly one which touched folks with as much impact as any other matter.

Yet that issue still was unresolved as the hands of the clocks in the chambers of the two houses inched towards "12" on the dials — and there was Dolph Briscoe, who, steadfastly has refused to call a special session except enactment of the 55 m.p.h. speed limit.

So the next day most of the Capitol press corps, quite a few House members and assorted senators packed into the red-carpeted reception room to hear Briscoe announce plans for a special session.

Briscoe noted that the legislature had managed to deal with three of the four areas in which he had urged action—highways, law and order and medical malpractice. He failed to note that only the first was not in doubt until the literal eleventh hour, when malpractice and the limited oral confessions measure won approval.

Briscoe made it clear he still doen't like having to call a special session.

HE SHIFTED PART of the burden back to Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who will ride herd over the efforts of their education committees, which are to hammer out a bill before the lawmakers return—sometime (Briscoe anticipates) in mid-July.

Post mortems on the session—and Briscoe's decision—have produced the concensus that Briscoe had little choice in calling for a special session on school finance.

Too many people and too much is involved, the reasoning goes, to simply let the matter drop—and to go back to the automatic funding of the minimum foundation school program under the present bill.

Briscoe, in his statement, indicated he agrees.

Briscoe didn't have to point out that had he not called a special session, that would have become an immediate political issue for his re-election campaign—the official start of which may be delayed a bit due to the special session.

ATTORNEY GENERAL JOHN HILL, should he, as expected, run against Briscoe, undoubtedly would have loved to have had that issue to use against Briscoe.

Hill may have the chance to use teacher salaries—depending on Briscoe's message and the action of the lawmakers.

"Educators for Hill" has already filed with Secretary of State Mark White, as Briscoe and his aides surely know.

School finance is likely to figure into the campaign of a lot of other politicians, too.

Some observers felt Clayton might have "held the board open" on the vote to suspend the rules on taking up the school finance bill—in an effort to switch over the six votes needed to adopt the bill.

That wouldn't have changed the outcome — except to allow the House to blame the Senate for failing to pass a bill.

That would have been some fairly valuable political capital, especially since the Senate already is being viewed by many as the villain for taking up the matter so late in the session, and delaying so long in approving any bill.

BUT CLAYTON WANTS to run for speaker for a third term — and Rep. Bill Sullivant of Gainesville already has announced against him.

So the bill came up—and went down—and members of the House wiped away the sweat upon hearing the Senate , too, had failed to approve a bill,

Had the Senate done so, senators would have found more to like about the bill than they apparently did—and vice versa, had the House acted and the Senate not.

Such is the algebra of politics—as Dolph Briscoe knows as well as anyone.

And if that's true of special sessions, what, one wonders, may eventually come of "no new taxes"?

Horsedrawn hack trips to Abilene

by HAMILTON WRIGHT

In the 1890s a hack drawn by two good horses negotiated the distance from G'town to Abilene, a distance of approximately 200 miles.

THERE WASN'T SINGLE YARD of paving the entire distance. After rains deep ruts slowed heavily-laden wagons. And sometimes the roads were impassable. Directirons to travelers showed on crude signs. Some of them in pastures read "Rosted" after putting an addition to the "P" warning trespassers.

In olden days much lumber, foodstuffs and other commodities were freighted from Round Rock to villages and towns in West Texas. Buffalo hides and later buffalo bones gathered on the flats about Buffalo Gap and Abilene were waggoned to Austin. Those were the days before the railroads into that region. Abilene got its first railroad in March 1881.

Stones, like grave markers, along the main thoroughfares, had a pointing fore finger showing direction to the next town, along with the approximate distance ahead.

IN THE 1890s this writer made several trips with his father and brother to Buffalo Gap and Abilene. The country was rather wild but Indians had gone. Travel was lonely except for meeting travelers going in the opposition direction.

We'd camp out every night. We preferred a creek where we could fish. Fishermen were not in multitudes then. If a farm house was near Dad would go to the door and make arrangements for the lady to cook up a batch of biscuits. Old-time bacon sandwiched in the biscuits, with black coffee, made up our breakfasts.

Once we encountered a tornado and severe hail. Our horses were hurt by the hail. Our journey was postponed several days until the horses healed. During that time we fished.

DISCOVER 4-H

By CAROLYN BONNER & EDWARD WILKIE

Texas 4-H Roundup brings together the top youth talents in the state in judging contests and various demonstrations and skill events. Their goal is to be the best in Texas.

Some 1,600 4-H boys and girls will be at Texas A&M University June 7 and 8 for the annual event which has become a highlight of the 4-H year. Competition is keen in the 36 events which range from public speaking and livestock judging to demonstrations on safety and use of electricity. A new contest in method demonstrations has been added that is open to all members regardless of their project interest.

Vangie Stoll and Bill Moenke of Taylor will compete with their Safety Demonstration entitled, "It's Your Life Protect It."

A major event of 4-H Roundup is the State 4-H Food Show on June 7, with judging of entries beginning at 9 a.m. All other competition will be on June 8, with some events beginning as early as 6:30 a.m.

ROUNDUP headquarters will be the Rudder Center, and activities will officially get under way with an opening assembly at 5:30 p.m. on June 7 in the Center auditorium, points out George McArthur, 4-H and youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Roundup coordinator.

Featured at the assembly will be an awards program recognizing five individuals, businesses or organizations that have made outstanding contributions to 4-H. Winners of numerous 4-H scholarship awards will also be announced. Presiding will be Bonnie Helwig of Runnels County, vice chairman of the Texas 4-H Council.

In addition to the various contests and demonstrations on June 8, a special luncheon will be held in honor of 28 outstanding 4-H adult leaders in Texas. These leaders are selected on the basis of two from each of the 14 Extension Service districts, notes McArthur. Mr. Jack Winterrowd of Thrall will be recognized as one of the 28 outstanding adult leaders in Texas for his contribution to 4-H in Williamson County and District 10.

WRAPPING UP Roundup activities will be a special recognition program at 8 p.m. at which winners in the day's competitive events will be presented. Master of ceremonies will be Ken Jordan of Mason County, Texas, 4-H Council Chairman.

State 4-H Roundup not only attracts a host of youth but also brings together some 500 adults, including county Extension agents, 4-H leaders, friends of 4-H, mass media representatives, contest donors and members of the board of directors of the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation, the service organization of 4-H in the state.

Many in 4-H consider Roundup the top event of the year. It provides an opportunity for youth to grow and develop and to share learning experiences across a broad spectrum of activities. And really, that's what 4-H is all about.

TEXAS 4-H Roundup is one of the oldest annual statewide 4-H events in the nation. Through the years it has offered challenges and thrills to those who have competed. THERE WILL BE A 4-H HORSEMANSHIP SCHOOL held June 23-25 at Manor Downs, northeast of Austin approximately 11 miles. Program aides hired by the Texas A&M Horse Specialists will conduct the clinic which will deal with horsemanship, bitting, maneuvers, showmanship, training, grooming, and safety.

Parents and adult leaders are also encouraged to attend this clinic and a session will be held to instruct them on assisting 4-H horsemen, adjusting and building horse equipment, and ways to demonstrate and teach horsemanship skills. A question and answer period will be held during the session.

INSTRUCTIONAL costs for the clinic will be $6.00 ($2.00/day/student). Facility and stall fees will be $1.00/day or $3.00 for the school. A noon meal will be available each day at an estimated cost of $2.00. This could vary but should be reasonably close.

Any Williamson County 4-H member or adult leader interested in attending this 4-H Horsemanship School should contact the County Extension Office for registration forms and further details. Registration forms must be completed and returned to the Travis County Extension Office by June 10th.

Short Snorts

Charles Barden resigned as executive director of Texas Air Control Board, effective June 30, to enter private business with a consulting firm specializing in air pollution controls.

A 132-page report of the Texas Bicentennial Commission was presented to the governor.

Gross sales in Texas for the last three months of 1976 exceeded $43.3 billion, raising the year's total to $142.4 billion, according to Comptroller Bob Bullock.

State and federal leases in offshore Texas petroleum provinces produced 80,254 barrels of crude oil during March compared with 89,379 a year ago and 47,344 in February.

Gov. Briscoe said he is giving "close scrutiny" to the bill which would ban insurance and drivers' license penalties for speeding violations in the 55-70 miles an hour range.

METRIPHOBIA. That metric system is not as bad as you might think. It's easy to learn and easy to work with. The trouble now is that what you read in the newspapers and the various brochures, are conversions from our present clumsy system. It doesn't come out even and that's why we see the flock of decimals and that scares people. When the metric system is finally adopted we'll be buying and selling in whole numbers. We'll buy a liter or half-liter of milk, a kilogram (kilo) of meat, we'll jog or drive so many meters or kilometers etc.

All we'll have to learn is the various prefixes, the milli, deka, centi, mega and so on. If we'll need to reduce or enlarge the number or amount we simply multilpy or divide by ten, as the case may be. Easy, like falling off a log.

YOU DON'T have to be big to be good. John E. Moore, popular Taylor grainman proves it everyday with his folksy but practical farm and agribusiness broadcast over the local radio. The 'big guys' of Dallas, Houston and San Antonio radios just read the Department of Agriculture handouts, most of them not very relevant to their area, and let it go at that. John's markets and information can be used, and is used, here and now, on the farms and ranches of his listening area.

Lawhon and Suh chosen to attend Girls-Boys State

Paula Lawhon and Dick Suh were chosen from Georgetown High School to attend American Legion Girls State and Boys State in June.

They were chosen by their teachers and by members of the American Legion and Opti-Mrs. Club to attend the 10 day sessions studying local, state and national government.

OVER 520 girls will converge on the Texas Lutheran Campus in Seguin June 14 through 24 for the Girls State study program. They will campaign for offices, hold elections and study government. Then, at the end of the study period, the group will journey to Austin, where they will assume the offices of the public officials they have been studying and run the government for a day.

Boys State convenes in Austin June 8. Some 900 young men are expected to take part in the annual event. The boys will be housed in 22 Boys State "cities" with each city further divided into two precincts, one for the Federalist and one for the Nationalist political party. Like the Girls State participants, the boys run for political office, hold elections and study government from the inside.

The purpose of the program, according to the Texas American Legion, is to develop civic leadership and pride in America, arouse an interest in the detailed study of government and call attention to the importance of citizens exercising their right to vote.

Paula and Dick look forward to the experience and expect to learn a great deal in their study of the governmental process.

Georgetown Library: Jungle Safari Bookings

Have you ever dreamed about undertaking a jungle safari?

Ever yearned to visit distant lands? Want to learn more about the unusual customs, different lifestyles, and exotic foods of other cultures?

READERS AT the Georgetown Public Library may join more than 100,000 young Texans who will be taking a "Jungle Journey" this summer.

School is out. The long three months of summer loom before your youngster. One major complaint often heard by parents is "there's nothing to do."

There is, in reality, much going on in Georgetown and part of the action is right at the Georgetown Library. During the summer the library will be planning special activities, including films, puppet shows, and other programs.

Then there is the jungle journey. To undertake this fascinating trip requires that you enjoy reading books and that you join the Summer Reading Club.

SPONSORED JOINTLY by the Georgetown Library and the Texas State Library, the Reading Club encourages young readers to use the recreational and informational materials they can find at their local library.

According to Verne Philpot, Head Librarian, "Each youngster will receive a reading log on which to record what he or she has read. In addition to the list of books each reader compiles, the log includes a pair of word puzzles and a maze. When a child has read ten books a certificate is presented."

The program is specifically geared to preschool youngsters through second grade, although the empasis at the library is on encouraging all youngsters to discover the fun of reading, to help children not forget the words they learned in school, and to bring their reading level higher.

"SUMMER READING," says Mrs. Philpot "helps build valuable reading skills." Summer reading, whether for entertainment or information, is different from the required reading that students must do during the school year. It's an opportunity to read based on the way one's interests roll.

If the trip sounds exciting and challenging to you, stop by the Georgetown Library, and sign up for your jungle journey. Hours are 10-5 Monday-Friday, 10-2, Saturday. Story time is Wednesday, 10:00, followed by a Dr. Seuss film.

Letters

Dear editor:

I would like to address the lack of road maintenance in and around Georgetown. There is a "mini pool" size hole at the corner of Cottonwood and Dunham, two more "front end smashers" at Mesquite and Power. It is getting more difficult to dodge all the holes in the Oakcrest subdivision. The Serenada subdivision has a drop-off on the right side serious enough to cause an accident or damage to their car.

My efforts have been met with procrastination and buck passing. The City of Georgetown and subdivision owners are shirking their responsibilities in road maintenance and the only solution as I see it is for those concerned to call or write a letter to responsible parties for a little "corrective action."

Liberty Hill NEWS

By Howard N. Wilson

I was sitting here thinking about our town and how proud I am of it, wondering about the outcome of the Panthers' Baseball game when Marvin Brown called into "Morning Breakaway" and told Jack Josey about the 7 to 6 win over Poth. It goes without saying that I was tremendously pleased, but it really made me feel good when Jack and Lenora expressed their pleasure of the win—Liberty Hill and our fine High School is definitely on the way up, and with the spirit that prevails in our community we will continue this upward course!

Donnie Johnson was the winning pitcher in the opening game of the best-of-three series against Poth to determine the regional champion which was played at Round Rock last Tuesday evening. The second game will be played starting at 5 p.m. Friday at Poth; the third game, if it is needed, will be played immediately following the second game.

Our young men and our coaches have done and are still doing an excellent job of which they and everyone else in our area can be very proud. We know that Doug and Linda, Mary Ann and Wendell McLeod attended the game at Round Rock, as well as others we don't know about, and we want to urge everyone who can to follow the Panthers all the way—they will know and appreciate your presence and your support!

As always Saturday will be a busy day in Liberty Hill with the Market Day on Liberty Hill Square, the VFW Post No. 8200 Game Session in the cafetorium in the Liberty Hill School and other assorted activities.

The Homecoming and Reunion at our Liberty Hill Memorial Cemetery, which is expected to have a record attendance, should draw many people who will also be interested in getting their portrait made Sunday afternoon at the Liberty Hill Fire Hall. As a reminder, you can get this portrait, an 8x10 in living color, for only $4 and this is an unbeatable bargin—the entire $4 will be put in the treasury of the fire department to help in the continuation of the invaluable service they do for our community. Even if you don't want a portrait you can make a cash donation!

Even though "we are an hour late and a dollar short" we must say that we were very impressed by "The Centennial Edition of The SUN," and we sincerely congratulate Don and Clara Scarbrough on the achievement of this momentous event! We are expecting for them and The SUN many more years of continued success.

Tim Ater, the Editor of The LIBERTARIAN, whom I was very pleased to meet for the first time last Sunday afternoon, told us of his deep appreciation for the consistent high quality that The SUN maintains—certainly we concur!

The First Baptist Church of Liberty Hill will have its annual Vacation Bible School Monday, June 6, through Friday, June 10, with classes each morning from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. Registration will be held at the church starting at 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 4, with refreshments being served on that day and every other day of the Bible School. If possible the church bus will run each day of the Bible School, but we encouage you to make plans to attend regardless of how you get there.

The Georgetown Building Department issued twenty-three building permits totaling $600,900 during May.

An additional nineteen permits were issued for buildings receiving city utilities but located outside city limits.

According to data provided by Mrs. Lucy Winters, Georgetown Building Department Secretary, single family permits within Georgetown equaled thirteen, reflecting a total value of $509,450.

Other building permits included a $48,000 two family dwelling, $19,250 for commercial building, $24,000 in alterations and additions to dwellings, and $200 in sign erection.

The race track is 50 feet in length and participants must furnish their tricycles. There is a 50 cent entry fee and entrants are asked to release the city and the Chamber of Commerce from responsibility for accidents.

An old fashioned, heel-stompin' Square Dance has been planned for Tuesday night beginning at 8 p.m. on the Courthouse Square. Two professional callers, Slim Harrington of Harker Heights and Cecil Dunman of Austin, have been employed for the evening.

Street Dances, featuring the Debonaires (a country and western band), will be held from 8 p.m. to midnight on the courthouse square Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. Admission is free to the public.

The 34th Annual Williamson's County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the fair grounds in San Gabriel Park.

Carroll Johnson, posse lieutenant and rodeo committee chairman Tommy Steiner will be furnishing stock for this year's Professional Cowboy's Association Rodeo. Tickets for the rodeo will be available at the gate or can be purchased from any posse member.

The rodeo parade is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Thursday, June 23, and already more than 35 cars, floats and marching groups have completed entries.

Loyd Longley, of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, said that he is expecting at least 50 entries and he added that this could easily be one of the largest parades in the city's history. Longley extended an invitation to all businesses, clubs and organizations, and individuals in Georgetown and neighboring communities to participate in the parade.

Some of the entries already received for the parade include the Williamson County Sheriff's Posse, Georgetown Mayor John Doerfler, a float representing the city of Giddings, the First Calvary Marching Band from Ft. Hood, U. S. Representative Dan Kubiak, Smithville float, Lampasas float, Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, Round Rock float, the Gary Drill Team of San Marcos, a float from Taylor, a vintage 1884 and 1938 model firetruck from Round Rock, Llano Chamber of Commerce float, Austin Aqua Festival float, the Shirts and Skirts Square Dancers, Georgetown Chamber of Commerce float featuring Miss Georgetown 1977, the Pflugerville Riders Club, Travis County Sheriff's Posse, San Angelo Saddle Club, the Killeen Riding and Roping Club, the Brown County Sheriff's Posse and the Georgetown Sheriff's Posse.

★Mayor reviews

county government has zoning control over areas such as the land bordering the lake. However, he said that a bill recently before the state legislature would give the county governments some jurisdiction over zoning. "I would like to see the bill passed," the mayor commented.

Under the present circumstances zoning property won't be much concern because the Corps of Engineers will own all the land up to the proposed flood level and all public access to the lake which will be via Corp of Engineers land.

One of the community improvements that Mayor Doerfler is pleased to have completed during his term concerns drainage. "The San Jose area was always prone to flooding from Smith's Branch but we have almost finished construction of an improved drainage system."

An open drainage ditch on Ash Street has recently been dug out and improved with pipe and concrete fittings, the mayor said, and "the construction really improved the looks of the area."

The hike and bike bridge at San Gabriel, which was recently washed away, is another concern of Doerfler's. "I think that people were really beginning to enjoy the trail and we will work on getting it replaced next month."

He added that he hopes to design the bridge a little differently so that it would be more sturdy in the future.

Other accomplishments made by the city council during his first year as mayor included installing an in-line booster line to improve water pressure to the residents in Gabriel Heights, the city's purchase of the Odd Fellows Hall next to City Hall, purchase of a down town parking lot, negoiating a lease-agreement with the county commissioners for a new show barn, the construction of the Neighborhood Center, dedicationg the new fire station on Central Drive, and completion of the intake system from North Fork Lake.

Doerfler seems excited about the city's purchase of the Odd Fellows Hall and said that he hopes the city will use the building to expand the police station as well as providing extra office space.

The proposed county barn will be built by the county commissioners on land donated by the city. "It will be about as big as a football field," Doerfler said.

Although not as large as the mayor had hoped, the Georgetown Neighborhood Center is providing a needed service to the city. The center, which was part of the Urban Renewal projects, was built with the city's Revenue Sharing funds.

"One thing that we are going to have to deal with whether we like it or not," the mayor said, "is that Urban Renewal is about over and the city is going to have to buy all the lots in the project that were not sold."

"We don't know how many or how much yet but the government will give us credit that will help some," he added.

Doerfler spoke of a number of projects that he would like to at least get started before his term ends next spring. "I would like to finish the lines from the intake structure to the treatment plant."

The mayor estimated that the construction would cost the city about $60,000 but said that either Revenue Sharing or Community Development monies could be used to bear the burden.

"I would like to purchase some 25 acres of land adjacent to the present landfill near San Gabriel Park to be used as a sanitary landfill or an addition to the park facilities," Doerfler stated.

The mayor also said that he would like to resolve the parking problem around the square in Georgetown. "I know that parking is vital to the survival of the square," he said, "and I would like to purchase another parking lot for the city."

Doerfler said that his first year as mayor of Georgetown has been an enjoyable experience for him. "I've learned a lot and I really hope that I have done some good."

say it) a t-o-t-a-l s-t-r-a-n-g-e-r.

I HOPE THEY WERE WRONG. I found so many willing to share glimpses of their private lives, personal thoughts and feelings. Person-to-person, and never mind any of the other staff. Maybe I'm naive. Maybe I'm wrong. You'd have to tell me.

Someone on the SUN staff ought to check out Mr. Scarbrough's bio-rhythm chart. When he's on recharge, watch the staff "move their tails," as the expression of the day goes. The next day may find Mr. Scarbrough. . .and the staff. . .as placid as a pool of water. Funny.

Mrs. Armpy Davis decided that she would dictate (a reporter's worst nightmare) her story to me. Her problem was that she knew what she wanted to say, but then again, she didn't. She frequently asked husband Armpy's advise, then went right ahead and said what she was going to say in the first place. Armpy did stand his ground when he felt the need. The whole thing was evidently such a traumatic experience for Mrs. Davis that, when we finally concluded the "interview", she got up from her desk and threw her arms around me with a sigh of relief.

SHE'S A WARM, responsive person who frequently called me "honey." I'm glad she felt better. It's difficult to know what to say, or is it what not to say, when you're the owner of a funeral home.

Floyd Jones, as I said in my copy, is a "man who doesn't mince with words." That, coupled with a (stringent manner) made me a little wary, yet that old cliche about a "heart of gold" seemed an apt description of him.

He fussed over his photo — there was no way he would have that picture in the paper. Besides, he was all limbered up and ready to throw a dazzler of a smile at the camera, and was I ready for it? I was, and so I stood there gazing into my viewfinder, waiting. I waited some more. Finally I said, "Are you smiling, Mr. Jones. . .?" "Yes. . .," he replied. "Oh. . .," I replied, and took the picture. Luckily we did find the "real him." When he smiles naturally, the smile comes from his eyes, not his mouth.

Laughter is an abundant commodity in Georgetown. Many times I returned to the SUN weakkneed from exchanging volleys of one-liners.

Eula Morrison and I conducted all our business over a cup of coffee in her kitchen. We met just after her birthday, when her table still displayed gifts from friends and relatives. She shared her special memories of the surprise party given her over that weekend. We said goodbye just after Mother's Day, when she had a new hydrangea to show me. "I hope we'll see each other again," she said. I felt the same way.

TOM AND SHERRY GUYTON have such dreams for their new-and old- Berry Hardware. I hope that everything turns out well for them.

Lil Peterson, at the Flower Nook, I'll remember for a long time to come. . .What I'll remember, besides the pleasure of sharing good conversation, coffee and goodies, amid endless heaps and mounds of flowers, is her voice. Full of exhilaration and warmth. She ought to have it insured.

I dropped by "impromptu," to see Myrtle Farris. "What would I say?" she said. "I don't have anything important to say!" I suggested a few subjects she might have something interesting to say about. "No, nothing interesting. . . .Well, there was the time. . . .and then, of course. . . ." I staggered from her office much, much later, but only after we had polished up the ibids, op. cits and addendums, and she had informed me that she wasn't going to take an ad if she didn't like the copy, and if I didn't already know, she had a mind of her own, and (gasp) I was a "cute little girl." Little girl! Another with a heart of gold.

MR. SCARBROUGH USED TO tell me he couldn't understand anything I said because I talked too fast. I couldn't understand anything he said because he talked too slow.

How many times, as I gathered copy for my features, did I hear, ". . .but don't print that!" or, more subtly, ". . .but you don't really want to write about that!"

Georgetown, have I got a thing or two on you!

I'm impressed with the women I work with — bright, efficient, and so energetic. Seldom does anyone complain, but through the threads of conversation woven over the past few months, one common theme emerges: If only we had more time. We don't, because, despite the influence of the women's movement, we still go home to another job. So many of the responsibilities and obligations we find at home are still implicitly 'women's work." Change comes so slowly. When will it be acceptable for us to do "-just" our fair share? If you're looking in on this article in the year 2077, I hope you're able to nod your head and say, "It happened."

JIM ISBELL AND I had never met when I phoned about setting up a photo appointment at Texas Crushed Stone. Yes, he had a rather large group in mind, he said. Employees; nothing more. When I arrived, he greeted me with great enthusiasm and suggested we drive out to the quarry, to see what I thought of his "new idea" for a photo.

It seems they had wanted to take a picture of the whole gang (180 strong) for a long time and. . .here I was! And, of course, they had a huge fleet of cats, front-end loaders and . . . .The rest was drowned out as we stood there in that enormous pit, with the Texas sun overhead, and various trucks began to lumber in from all directions. Whatever I had to say to Jim, Bill and Ned Snead, slipped away as I absentmindedly wondered whether the 2 train engines on the track to my right were purposely coming in for the photo. I threw it out as a joke. "You don't suppose . . . .. heh, heh!" They were!

A VERITABLE SMALL-SCALE BATTLE of the Bulge evolved before my (very astonished) eyes, as trucks took their positions under orders from a field supervisor — their very own General Patton. Not one collision, much to my amazement. One miscue and we had all the makings of another "Earthquake."

At this point, "director-producer" Isbell (believe me, Georgetown's gain is Hollywood's loss) suggested, after I had hoisted myself up on a digger and tried, unsuccessfully, to focus the whole "cast," that I climb the rock mini-mountains to get the distance I needed! Sandals strung together with a twist or two of hemp did not do the job, and so Ned donned sneakers and offered me his boots.

AT LAST THE SUMMIT was reached and we stood there, hair damp on our foreheads, breathing wheezily, and continued, still, to watch the troops roll in. I thought it would never end.

I began to punctuate my replies to Jim's questions with nervous giggles — the whole thing was becoming incredibly funny. I mean were they really putting all their trust in li'l ol' me, with my li'l ol' itty bitty camera? (It was getting smaller by the minute; in fact, as I gazed at it, it was transforming itself into a camera-shaped rubber .squirt gun. Regardless of who got "wet" — them, or me — I was a loser.)

WE WERE READY. Jim would give the signal-hands flailed in a criss-cross pattern over head — when Canada's other Josef Karsh had finished her "creating." Click. Click, . . .and more. Finished. I uncrossed all my fingers and toes, and intoned words in the direction of the above that my film would be O.K.

A little business discussed amid much joking, and I was on my way back to the SUN. I did a quick mental scan of the remainder of my afternoon's schedule. Probably nothing exciting. Ah, but you never know what will happen. . . .you never know.

Cheers! SUN. It's been a pleasure.

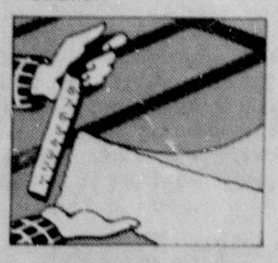
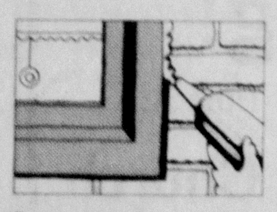
Air Conditioning and your electric bill.

The summer months in Texas are that time when the largest factor in most electric bills is operation of air conditioning equipment. On the average, air conditioning accounts for about half of summertime bills.

The most important single factor in holding down the cost of air conditioning is insulation.



Proper insulation blocks out heat. Six or more inches is recommended for attics, three or more inches for walls and two inches around the ducts of central systems. Insulation dealers or a TP&L Service Representative will help you determine the amounts you have and the amounts you may need to add.



Replace missing or worn weather stripping around door and window openings. Caulk around the outside of doors and windows where the frames meet the walls.

Keep fireplace dampers closed when not in use. Close blinds or drapes to block out direct sunlight.

Keep furniture and draperies away from air outlets and returns. Clean grills often.

Check filters every 30 days. If you have the permanent type, clean them by manufacturer's directions; if they're the disposable type, replace them when they're dirty.

Have your air conditioning equipment checked seasonally by a qualified serviceman.

Set the thermostat on 78 or higher. Turn equipment off if you will be away from home for several days or longer.

I need the Answers to some SERIOUS QUESTIONS

Why am I here? What shall I do with my life? Where am I going? This young man is at the threshold of his adult life and needs the answer to some serious questions. Perhaps you find yourself pausing to take stock of your life and groping for direction.

The Church of the Living God tells the truth about man's life, death, and destiny. The truths learned there will set you free to live a more abundant, meaningful, and creative life. "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." John 8:32.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The Tony Awards Come to TV

Broadway will honor the best work appearing on its stages this year on June 5, when the annual Tony Awards presentations will be made. The award ceremonies have been televised since 1967, and the fact that these awards, important chiefly to theatre in New York City, have been able to capture a prime time audience across the country is a tribute to the quality of the awards itself.

Top singers and dnacers lend their talents to the show, performing numbers from the Broadway musical stage. The awards are presented by stars, many of whom are better known for their work in films or on television, but all of whom have appeared at least once in the Broadway theatre. As the occasion of the theatrical year, it brings forth a black-tie audience of celebrtities across the red carpted sidewalk and into the theatre.

The practice of recognizing theatrical excellence with the Antoinette Perry Award, or Tony, was begun in 1947 by the American Theatre Wing. The idea was greeted with enthusiasm within the theatre, and the awards had the dual purpose of conferring professional recognition and of serving as a memorial to Miss Perry, who had died in 1946.

Antoinette Perry was a leader of the American Theatre Wing and other welfare organizations, as well as being an actress, director, and producer. She was born June 27, 1888, and made her professional debut as Dorothy in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" in 1905. The first segment of her career in the theatre lasted only until 1909, when she married Frank W. Preauff and went into retirement until 1924, tow years after his death.

Having resumed her career, she appeared in a series of plays, mostly under Brock Pemberton's management, and also began to direct. She directed "Strictly Dishonorable" in 1929; "Personal Appearance" in 1934; "Janie" in 1942; and "Harvey" in 1944. She was the wartime leader of the American Theatre Wing, which had been founded in 1917 as a war relief organization, and which, in World War II, initiated fund raising programs, special performances for troops, and its Stage Door Canteen.

The Tony's continued to recognize each season's best efforts, and remained a source of pride within the profession, but were little known outside the theatre. In 1966 Helen Mencken, who was president of the American Theatre Wing and had overseen the administration of the Tonys, died. The Wing found it could no longer maintain the tradition by itself.

The League of New York Theatres and Producers undertook to carry on the Wing's work in this area, and a program was hastily assembled. It proved unsatisfactory, and there was talk of discontinuing the awards.

Alexander E. Cohen, a successful producer on Broadway and in the West End of London, was strongly in favor of continuing the Antoinette Perry Awards. Cohen felt that the awards offered a potentially important merchandising tool to the theatre. "It seemed to us," Cohen has said, "that if the Oscars and the Emmys could command network time with limited entertainment value, there was no reason why the theatre -- the best entertainment there is -- couldn't do the same."

The awards were first presented as a major television special in 1967, with Mary Martin and Robert Preston as hosts. Rather than assemble the program from the contributions of a variety of writers, as the other televised award shows did, Cohen felt the program would be better if it were done by one writer with one concept. Hildy Parks was given this script assignment, and her efforst have been much praised by critics and audiences alike. She has continued as writer for the program on an annual basis, and Cohen has continued as its producer.

The host-performers this year will include Jack Albertson, Jane Alexander, Buddy Ebson, Jean Stapleton, Vivian Reed, and Damon Evans.

Albertson, star of the television series "Chico and the Man," won a Tony Award for his performance in "The Subject Was Roses."

Miss Alexander, who has been nominated for an Emmy Award for her portrayal of Eleanor Roosevelt in "Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years," won a Tony Award for her performance in "The Great White Hope."

Buddy Ebsen, star of the television series "Barnaby Jones," began his career as a vaudeville dancer and appeared in the 1946 Broadway production of "Showboat."

Jean Stapleton, known to television viewers as Edith Bunker on "All in the Family," is also a respected stage actress whose credits include "Damn Yankees," "Rhinoceros," and "Funny Girl."

Vivian Reed stars in the Broadway musical, "Bubbling Brown Sugar," for which she received a Tony nomination last year.

DISCOPHILE-- Who is the head of Motown Records, and where can I write to him? I have an idea for a disco song. C.B., Bryan, Tex.

Barry Gordy is the head honcho at Motown. You can send your funky music to him at Motown, 6255 West Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

V-DAY-- I've been trying to get John Voight's mailing address, but to no avail. Would you know it or his agent's address? Peggy Gentile, Kendall Park, N.J.

Voight is a free-lance actor. The best place to write him at the moment is in care of the Screen Actors Guild, 7750 West Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90068. They will forward the letter for you.

CHIC SHEIK-- With all the remakes of old movies, why was 'The Sheik' never remade after the death of Rudolph Valentino? Will there ever be another 'Sheik'? Marva Hodge. Fond du Lac, Wis.

I suppose you know Valentino did two desert dramas in this mode. The second was a 1926 film called 'Son of Sheik,' with Vilma Banky as the female lead. After Valentino's death it was decided no one else could fill the part. But in 1937 Ramon Navarro made a spoof of the original called 'The Sheik Steps Out.' I doubt if the mad-cap English girl will ever again be snatched from the sands by the desert chief, but Rudy Nureyev is playing Valentino in a film biography, and scenes from 'The Sheik' will be re-dramatized.

CARRY ON-- There's a series of English-made films about the Carry On gang. I saw 'Carry On Teacher' and 'Carry On Nurse' on TV. How many have been made in all? J.K. Simpson, Miami, Fla.

The first, made in 1958, was 'Carry On Sergeant.' Since then the producers and cast have been carrying on at a ridiculous rate. About 25 of these low-budget pictures have been made so far.

AGELESS-- How old is Martin Milner? he doesn't look that old, but I saw him in 'Life With Father,' which is a really old movie. At least I think he was in it. Jaycee Ridder, Lebanon, Pa.

Don't let the boyish grin and freckles fool you. Milner is 50 years old. He was 20 when he appeared in 'Life With Father,' his film debut. Milner also did the TV series The Trouble With Father, in the early '50s before going on to Route 66, the great road series.

LEARING-- Where can I write to producer Norman Lear. I'm sick of his putting sex all over the TV screen? He is NOT funny. Arlene Gerbner, Fargo, N.D.

You can send your letter bomb (only kidding) to Lear at TAT, Metromedia Square, Los Angeles, CA. 90028.

MERVELOUS-- I think Merv Griffin is terrific. He talks a little too much but he always has better guests than the other talk shows and he's smarter. Besides, he's cute. Where can I write for tickets to the show? K.C., Los Altos, Calif.

Griffin and gang tape at the TAV Theatre, Vine Street, Hollywood, CA. 90028. Write there for ticket information.

VOICEOVERS-- I have two questions about film narrators. One, and this is for a bet, who narrated 'How the West Was Won'? The other one is who narrated 'Zulu'? Tom Blanchard, Keene, N.H.

If you said Spencer Tracy, you won your bet. 'Zulu,' a favorite adventure epic of mine, was narrated by Richard Burton.

ROOTS-- I saw a rerun of Bonanza a while back and it was directed by Robert Altman. Is this the same Altman as the director of 'McCabe and Mrs. Miller'and Nashville, etc. David Handler, Kettleman City, Calif.

One and the same Altman. Many now famous director got their start on the small screen. Not only did Altman do Bonanza, but Sam Pekinpah was a director on The Rifleman.

BIONIC GROOM-- Who is Lindsay Wagner married to, and where is he from? Lillian Douglas, Zephyrhill, Fla.

Lindsay Wagner married long-time roomie Michael Brandon last year. He's from Brooklyn, N.Y.If you want to know where he's from professionally, Brandon was last seen on the tube in 'Red Alert. He got his start in New York understudying Al Pacino in 'Does A Tiger Wear A Necktie?'

"The Age of Uncertainty"

Galbraith Tutors a TV Audience

Scholarly John Kenneth Galbraith has taken his professorial background from the classroom to the television set in a unique 13-week series of lectures that he has designed to reflect his philosophies about economics.

The 13 dissertations are being carried over Public Broadcasting on Thursday nights at 9. The first dozen are one-hour programs. The finale is a 90-minute wrapup with the world's leading economists and political figures, including Henry Kissinger and former English prime minister Edward Heath.

The series already has been aired in England, which had first call since it was the BBC which produced the project. Galbraith looks upon it as a pet project which took four years to develop.

The umbrella title for the series is "The Age of Uncertainty." Galbraith narrates it with his typical, inoffensive lack of modesty. "My thoughts are generally right," he remarked recently when questioned about the program at a press conference in New York. In the series he starts 200 years ago with the Scottish economist Adam Smith and traces the core of economic philosophies up to the present.

Galbraith has attempted to present the series in a lecture form with a certain flare. He says he didn't want it to be boring.

"There are no educational values (to be realized) if people turn off their sets," he notes.

The reaction in Britain was largely favorable. The mail was enormous, Galbraith reports.

Animated illustrations accent the remarks of the lecturer. Galbraith even goes "on location." It is part of the new face of educational television that puts "The Age of Uncertainty" into the same elite category with Jacob Bronowski's "Ascent of Man" and Sir Kenneth Clark's "Civilisation," and earlier, the very first of the made-for-TV lecture series, Alistair Cooke's "America."

Galbraith, the former economics professor at Harvard and the Ambassador to India during President Kennedy's regime, declares the lessons of economics are important, informational, educational and interesting. From Adam Smith, through Marx, from classical capitalism to socialism and communism, the lessons are adaptable to televison and its broadening scope of communication.

This brings a new dimension to television, Galbraith suggests with a sly grin. "Pornography is out. Violence is out. Homosexuality is fairly in," he contends -- mockingly. "Economics are in. Sex runs second -- well behind economics."

Galbraith makes no pretenses about the directions of the series.

"The original idea was that it would be an unadulterated fashion of my thoughts," Galbraith said. He added wryly, "and I want to assure you that my thoughts are generally right."

At another point in the press conference, Galbraith referred to a commentary by William Buckley which winds up the first episode, and the noted economist observed: "pay no attention to him (Buckley). He's generally wrong. He's a nice man . . . I like him."

Through the 13 episodes, Galbraith insists that he has made no effort to appear condescending to the television audience, and that, in reality, he himself has emerged from this project with a new respect for television.

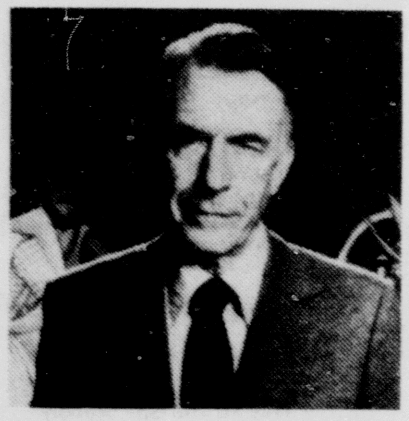
"No doublt, if I had delivered this lecture series 30 or 40 years ago (pre-television), it would have been useful to several generations in the lecture room, on the campus," Galbraith noted. "But now television adds the eye to the ear, as it reaches that massive audience."

In the weeks that follow, Galbraith will philosophize about "Karl Marx -- The

He discusses "The Rise and Fall of Money," dotes on big corporations, and gets into the arms race between Russia and the U.S. Massive Dissent, " manners and morals of high capitalism, Lenin and what Galbraith calls "The Great Ungluing."

He extrapolates on various forms of democracy, and finally, discusses "Weekend in Vermont."

The "Weekend in Vermont" episode was filmed at the Galbraith farm in Vermont. The round-table discussion included then Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and other important political figures. Consequently, the Galbraith farm was over-run with Secret Service people.



There could be a series of that gathering in itself. Galbraith reported that 18 roles of film were shot, and that it had to be severely edited for the 13th episode.

In the course of conversation, Galbraith put forth some political philosophies as well. He remarked that in reality there are three political parties in the United Sates: Liberal, Conservative, and Prudent.

"President Ford very nearly made it as a coalition of the Conservatives and the Prudent," Galbraith declared.

Galbraith was asked if it was possible to have a coalition of Liberals and Prudents.

"I don't know," he responded. "But if it is, I'm prepared to join it."

Someone asked Galbraith if he had any thoughts regarding the Nixon-Frost television interviews.

"Well, I always thought that Frost and Nixon deserved each other," he replied.

In the weeks that follow, Galbraith will philosophize about "Karl Marx -- The Massive Dissent," manners and morals of high capitalism, Lenin and what Galbraith calls "The Great Ungluing."

TV Star Scene

Robert Stack is plenty upset about the recent cancellation of his ABC series, Most Wanted. He feels the network handled the series' time slot poorly, pre-empting it twice after it won out over its competition the previous two weeks . . . Apparently Johnny Cash is not quite as disenchanted with television as he made out after his last poorly-received special. He's just signed an exclusive three-year contract with CBS and will star in two musical-variety specials for the network next season.

Mary Tyler Moor Enterprises is giving a big push to the Betty White-Georgia Engel series it sold to CBS for next season. They've assigned one of their top guns from the old MTM series, Bob Ellison, to produce the situation comedy for the 1977-78 season . . . Paramount TV has begun production on "Inside the Third Reich." The memoirs of Hitler aide Albert Speer are being prepared as a 10-part miniseries for NBC.

Dick Van Patten, the father on the recently-renewed ABC series "Eight Is Enough," will join the cast of Mel Brook's theatrical film "High Anxiety" this summer. Others in this take-off of the Hitchcock classic "Vertigo" are Madeline Kahn, Dom De Luise and Cloris Leachman . . . Clam-ma Dale, Ben Vereen and Tony Bennett are among the names signed to perform with conductor Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra on PBS' Evening at Pops series beginning July 10.

Ann-Margret, whose recent country-western outing with Bob Hope, Perry Como and Minnie Pearl was a ratings winner, joins TV's Columbo, Peter Falk, in Neil Simon's detective spoof, "The Cheap Detective."

Filming begins this summer . . . Piper Laurie, fresh from her Oscar-nominated comeback in "Carrie," joins TV veteran Brian Keith in NBC's TV-movie "In the Matter of Karen Ann Quinlan." They'll portray the parents of the comatose New Jersey girl whose fate was debated across the nation last summer.

"The Waltons" has been awarded yet another citation for its inspiring family image, this time from the American Mothers Committee . . . Shields and Yarnell, the talented husband-and-wife mime team who first gained national recognition on the Sonny and Cher show, will have their own summer series on CBS beginning June 13 . . . Viewers can learn about their ills, ailments and cures in comprehensible, everyday language when MD, a series of 13 medical information programs, premieres on PBS June 8.

CBS Sports Spectacular has an unusual competition coming up June 11 when they telecast the World Series of Poker from Las Vegas. Each competitor will put up $10,000, and the winner-takes-all . . . "The Four Feathers," the A.E.W. Mason classic about British soldiers in the Sudan, will get yet another reincarnation. NBC is filming the novel as a TV movie for next season, with Beau Bridges as the stiff-upper-lipped hero . . . Herbie Mann will bring his sizzling talent as jazz flutist to PBS' At the Top series June 30.

Two of the biggest winners from the "Roots" bonanza, author Alex Haley and star LeVar Burton, are involved in separate projects for next season. Haley will narrate "I Shall Moulder Before I Am Taken," a public broadcasting documentary about the present-day descendants of the African slaves of Surinam, South America. Burton has undertaken the title role of "Billy," an NBC TV-movie about a ghetto youngster striving to make a better life for himself . . . CBS has joined with General Mills to produce an admirable children's series for next fall. Titled "The Winners," the monthly series will focus on how young people can reach their goals, despite personal and physical obstacles.

Game 1: Liberty Hill 7, Poth 6

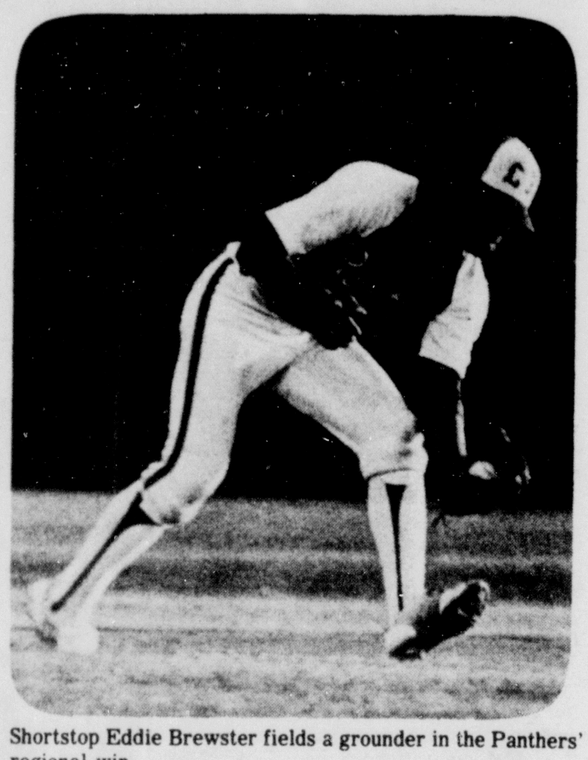
With a season record of only 8-11, Liberty Hill still had the chance Friday night to end its season with a regional championship. The Class A Panthers were playing Poth, one game away from the region crown.

Liberty Hill won the first game of the series Tuesday night in Round Rock with four unearned runs and six strong innings by pitcher Donnie Johnson left.

Should the Panthers take one of the last two games of the series, they would win the region, but would advance no farther. Only Class AAA and AAAA teams have state championships.

But for an 8-11 team, even a regional championship is a big step.

Donnie Johnson, who went the distance in Liberty Hill's first game win over Poth, hurls in the second inning of that game. He was the winner, 7-6, his eighth victory of the season.



Shortstop Eddie Brewster fields a grounder in the Panthers' regional win.

Rider wins ribbons at Waco horse show

On May 29 Heather Levens and her horse, Quanah Windsong, participated in the Cen-Tex Hunter and Jumper Association Horse Show at Cedarwood Stables in Waco, Texas.

She entered seven classes and won seven ribbons. In the Novice Rider Hunter Under Saddle class she won a silver trophy and a blue ribbon. This win advances Heather and Quanah to a more advanced level of competition.

Heather plans to compete in the remaining monthly Cen-Tex Hunter and Jumper Association shows this year. Next year she is anticipating performing in the three-day show sponsored by the American Horse Show Association at Fredericksburg.

Fishing license fees increasing

Recent action by the 65th Texas Legislature increases sport fishing license fees for both residents and non residents and makes those licenses purchased after June 1, 1977, valid through August 31, 1978.

Those bought prior to June 1 will expire one year from date of purchase.

As of September 1, 1977, fees for resident sportfishing licenses will go up from $4.25 to $4.50, and those for non-residents will increase to $10.50.

Now, both fishing, hunting and the combination fishing and hunting licenses will be valid from September 1 of one year through August 31 of the following year.

License sales officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department say anyone who buys a fishing license in June 1977 will be allowed to fish for 15 months at the old price of $4.25.

Two marijuana busts at 3rd Bootys crossing

Six persons were arrested by the Sheriff's Department for misdemeanor possession of marijuana in two separate incidents near the 3rd Bootys Crossing (Box crossing) of the North San Gabriel River last weekend.

Three persons were arrested Friday morning, May 27, after being caught smoking marijuana in a pipe by two Sheriffs deputies.

Three persons were also arrested Sunday evening, May 29, after being seen sharing a marijuana cigarette by Sheriff August Bosshard and two deputies.

ON MAY 27 at 8:45 a.m. Sheriff Bosshard, Chief Deputy Leon Kelley and Deputy Jim Boutwell reported seeing two men and a woman smoking a pipe at the waters edge near the 3rd Bootys Crossing.

The three officers reported smelling marijuana smoke, approaching the water and getting within about 25 feet of the three smokers before they were noticed.

Officers reported that one of the men attempted to empty the pipe into a small campfire, and reported finding a small quantity of marijuana in a plastic bag inside the woman's purse.

Arrested were Paul Edmund Berndt III, 25, of 700 Coupland in Austin; John Wolf, 21, of 308 W. University in Georgetown; and Amy Spellman, 18, of 1504 E. 18th in Georgetown.

ON MAY 29 Kelley and Boutwell were near the 3rd Bootys Crossing again when they heard loud music coming from the river.

They reported spotting three persons, two males and one female, sitting on a gravel bar and then walking about 100 feet away.

Kelley reported seeing a partially opened cigarette box left where the three persons had been sitting. He also noticed one hand rolled yellow cigarette visable among the others in the box.

The offense said that the three persons then lit a cigarette and shared it, "smoking it in a manner indicating to these officers that it was probably marijuana."

ARRESTED was Alex Bostrom, 17, of Route 2, Airport Road in Georgetown and two juveniles.

After searching their car, Boutwell found a plastic container in the glove box containing less than one ounce of marijuana.

Florence water rates may jump in June

The aldermen of the Florence City Council are expected to propose a rate increase on city residents for water, sewer and garbage services when the council holds its regular June meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Customers of the city are presently paying a minimum of $3 per first 2,000 gallons of water, $1.25 for the second 1,000 gallons and $.75 per 1,000 after 3,000. If the council proposal is passed it is likely that customers could be paying as much as $4 minimum for the first 2,000 gallons and $2.25 and $1.50 per 1,000 gallons after that.

The first topic listed on the agenda, however, is 34 percent rate increase requested by the Texas Power and Light Company. TPA requested the increase in January but the aldermen have managed to stall the increase until now.

The engineering firm of Dunlap Associates will present a report to the council concerning the city's application for a grant to replace the town's existing sewer collection main.

Representatives of the Florence Volunteer Fire Department are also expected to make a report before the aldermen.

When should you call the Georgetown Police?

WHEN SHOULD you call the police?

Should you call and request an officer to fix your leaking faucet? Should you call to complain that your garbage isn't hauled away?

Should you call because your neighbor's dog is howling?

Should you call to air your gripes against a neighbor or spouse?

You probably should not call about ticky tack, trivial, and inconsequential matters. For example, the animal warden is the person to contact if your neighbor's dog is filling your eardrums with sounds that are less than musically sweet. Says Chief Travis Thomas, "Calling an officer to quieten a dog is like calling a plumber to fix your TV. The animal warden should be called, not the police. Call the right person."

YOU SHOULD, however, never feel reluctant to dial when you see an incident that arouses your suspicion, a crime has been committed, or one is in progress.

For example, you arrive home. You're a burglarly victim. Chief Thomas emphasized that you should not conduct your own investigation before calling police. "Don't handle all the evidence. Call us right away."

By the same token, don't expect police to rush out and arrest somebody based on a gripe session on the phone. An officer, called to the scene of a family squabble, cannot arrest a spouse simply because one mate is upset and says "arrest him!" Chief Thomas says that arrest requires that you file a complaint before a judge, at which time you've lodged a formal complaint and subsequent action can be taken.

AN OFFICER CAN, however, make an arrest where he has seen an accident, has a warrant, or has probable cause. "It is very important that Georgetown residents report all crimes so that we have something to go on," said Chief Thomas.

"They should never take the attitude that nothing will be done or that letting us know is too much hassle.

"Three crimes that people are reluctant to report are rape and female assault, child abuse, and petty theft. One thing is certain, if we don't hear about it, our hands are tied."

Let's assume you want to report a problem to the police. What happens from the time you call?

FIRST, the dispatcher takes details. An officer is then assigned to check it out. An incident report is written. An incident report may cover anything from helping a driver whose auto stalled to suspicions regarding a major crime.

If a major crime was committed, an offence report is made by the investigating officer.

When a person is taken into custody for the above offence an arrest report is then written.

SPEEDING, for example, might result in an officer issuing a citation and an arrest report being written (a citation is technically a form of arrest with the motorist in this case promising to appear and pay a fine).

If, however, an officer discovers the vehicle is stolen, an offence and arrest report will be made. Felony crimes would result in the suspect being fingerprinted and held. Misdemeanors usually do not require offence reports being filed.

Misdemeanor traffic violations work a little differently.

A person is issued a citation and given twelve days to contact the court and make arrangements to either plead guilty and pay a fine or else, if in disagreement, ask that a trial date be set. Speeding continues to be a major contributor to serious injury and deaths in our state and the Georgetown Police Department will stop any motorist speeding excessively or suspected of driving under the influence.

Failure to appear in court results in issuing a warrant, and penalties (in addition to the original citation) could range as high as $200.

DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE continues as a serious concern in Williamson County. Those cited appear before a judge, are told of the charges, and advised of their rights. If the charge is a bailable offence the citizen can post bond. If bond cannot be posted, the individual goes to jail.

Where a person has local ties in the community and the arrest is made after the magistrate's regular office hours, the sheriff might set bond, then release the person.

Chief Thomas cites theft as a growing concern. The hot item is CB's. Where stolen property is recovered, a person often cannot present proper identication because they have not kept good records of what they own nor placed identifying marks (such as license plate number) on their personal belongings. To say "I'd know that scratch or dent anywhere" isn't proper identification.

Chief Thomas says the Georgetown Police Department will loan out engravers to residents so they can label their possessions as a protection against theft. He encourages the registering of bicycles with the department for the same reason.

Thomas said he wants all citizens of Georgetown to feel they can confidently rely on their police department to help them enjoy the benefits derived from living in a protected and safe community.

County gains 5½ thousand new voters in 1976

The State Comptroller's office mailed a $2,308 check to Williamson County Tuesday as payment for issuing and processing voter registration certificates from February 1, 1976 through January 31, 1977.

The county is paid 40 cents by the state for each certificate issued or canceled.

Williamson County had 26,270 registered voters on February 1, 1976 and added 5,581 new voters by January 31, 1977. There were also 189 cancellations, usually because of people moving out of the county.

According to Williamson County Tax Assessor Collector William Buck, the state pays the county for each new registration and cancellation made during even numbered years.

On odd numbered years the county receives 40 cents for the total number of voters plus the number of new registrations issued. So, last year the county got a $7,532 check for voter registrations in 1975.

Payments for 1976 registrations to counties ranged from a low of $6.80 to Donley County up to $117,141 to Dallas County.

Three counties — Brewster, Fisher and Madison — did not submit the necessary paperwork on time.
